KRUPP FACTORY WORKERS FIGHT AND SIX DEAD

French Soldiers In Sharp Clash With German Workers at Gun Plant In Essen Use Machine Rifles On The Crowd During Demonstration.

TWENTY ARE WOUNDED, ACCORDING TO REPORT

Trouble Starts When Military Unexpectedly Moves to Occupy Motor Shops — Striking Railroaders Must Return to Jobs or Leave.

(Associated Press.)

BERLIN, March 31.—Six German workers at the Krupp plant in Essen have been killed and twenty injured in a conflict with the French military, says a Central News dispatch from Essen today.

The trouble occurred through the French unexpectedly proceeding to occupy certain of the Krupps motor works whereupon the workers stopped the machinery and went outside to offer opposition, the message states. The officer in charge of the French tried to persuade the men to return to duty, but they refused and surrounded the troops, threatening them with attack unless they withdrew.

The officer pointed out that he must carry out his orders, but the workers were obdurate, declaring they would defend their plant.

Four machine guns then opened fire, adds the message, and six workers fell dead while twenty were seriously wounded. The remainder scattered and the French then proceeded to occupy the works.

Seize Government Mines.

ESSEN, March 31.—The government owned coal mines at Emschelipho, in the Gelsenkirchen district, were occupied today by the French engineers, escorted by a detachment of troops with tanks. This is the ninth mine in the Ruhr taken over by the French and Belgians. Thirty thousand tons of coke and great piles of coal were seized.

Several thousand miners employed at this plant went on strike when the troops appeared.

Must Work or Leave.

ESSEN, March 31.—Striking railroad men will have to return to work or be expelled from occupied Germany, according to an order issued by General Degoutte.

In Complete Harmony.

BRUSSELS, March 31.—After a conference with Foreign Minister Jaspar, who just returned from Italy, King Albert said: "There is complete harmony between the Italian, French and Belgian governments, concerning their attitude towards Germany."

Have Difficult Task.

DUSSELDORF, March 31.—General DeGoutte's proclamation that all striking German railway workers in the occupied zone must either return to work or be expelled finds the allies in possession of all Ruhr and Rhineland rail lines except those in the British area.

Enforcement of the order, it seems, will offer the transportation officials something of a problem for approximately half a million persons including the families of the men, may be affected. It is expected that the process of expulsion will take several weeks and special transportation to the frontier must be provided.

Fair and Warmer on Easter Sunday

"Fair and rising temperature" is the weather bureau's prediction for Easter Sunday, in eastern Nebraska. The day will be ushered in, according to the forecast, with a temperature of about 26 degrees above zero, and the mercury will rise during the day. The sky may be cloudy, but there will be no rain or snow, and the warmth will be a pleasing contrast to the cold weather of the last few days.

Lincoln Rats Eat More Than $100,000 a Year

There are 57,307 rats in Lincoln, according to a bulletin issued Saturday morning by the city department of health. Figuring that it costs $1.82 a year to keep a rat in fairly presentable condition the bulletin estimates that the city spends about $104,298.74 each year on the rodents. Thus, says the report, any money spent on ridding the city of the vermin would pay enormous returns from an economic standpoint alone, to say nothing of health results.

The department urges that every owner or tenant should clean their premises and strongly suggests that each citizen operate with the city d[illegible] second week in April, which been designated as annual [illegible]an-up" week.

One Killed When Train Is Wrecked

PORTLAND, Ore., March 31.—One man was killed, two were injured and several were shaken up and bruised when the North Bank limited train enroute to Spokane was derailed at Cheney, Wash., early today, according to reports received here.

TOWER FALLS AND FIVE DEAD

Several Workmen Killed and Others Injured In Downward Crash of 50,000 Gallon Water Tank Atop Hartford Brush Company Plant.

(Associated Press.)

HARTFORD, Conn., March 31.—Five workmen were killed and several others seriously injured today when the central tower on the New Windsor avenue factory of the Fuller Brush company, collapsed.

The weight of a fifty thousand gallon water tank at the top of the tower, which had been filled for a test, was the apparent cause of the crash. The tank weighed about 150 tons.

Police reserves and several fire companies were sent to the scene to assist in removing the dead and injured from the great heap of debris.

HOUSE BACKSTEPS ON ELECTION LAW

Reconsiders Action Taking County Superintendent Out of Nonpolitical Ballot.

On motion by Mr. Wilson (Dawes) the house took action Saturday to correct its blunder the day before in advancing a bill to third reading which takes county superintendents out from under the nonpolitical election law. He moved to recommit the measure for a special amendment which would remove that feature. The motion prevailed.

A section of loose plaster fell during the forenoon session from the ceiling in the front part of the chamber, which is nearly forty feet high. No one happened to be under it at the time. To guard against injury from this cause, Mr. Keck moved and the house ordered the removal of the remaining loose material.

Among the bills considered in committee of the whole Saturday morning and sent to third reading were:

Permitting establishment of county hospitals in counties of over 3,000 population, by vote of the people; bonds limited to $100,000 and two-thirds vote required. H. R. 13.

County treasurer allowed half of taxes collected from irrigation districts, as office fees, and to retain 25 per cent of such fees as additional salary, not exceeding $500. H. R. 267.

Authorizing any elector to contest result of an election on county seat removal or any other proposition voted upon in a referendum. H. R. 614.

Board of control empowered to remove women prisoners from penitentiary to York reformatory, and use their present quarters for employes or to accommodate more male convicts. H. R. 424.

Flames Raze Beach Hotel

Blaze Threatens to Wipe Out Summer Resort at Chesapeake Beach, Maryland.

CHESAPEAKE BEACH, Md., March 31.—Fanned by a high wind from Chesapeake bay, fire of undetermined origin today threatened the destruction of the summer resort here.

The Belvidere hotel was completely destroyed with an estimated loss of many thousands of dollars, the flames spreading rapidly to other buildings. Calls have been sent to Washinton, thirty miles from here, for fire fighting apparatus.

Washington Sends Aid.

WASHINGTON, March 31—Responding to calls for help, two companies of the Washington fire department left here this morning for Chesapeake Beach where a disastrous fire is raging.

Great Britain to Pension Pigeons

LONDON, March 3. — Ex-service pigeons, which were under fire several times during the war, while carrying messages for the British army have been pensioned off by the war department to the care of a keeper whose duty, it will be to see that they are properly cared for until they die.

Among pigeons which will spend the rest of their lives in ease is "Flighty" who carried to the n[illegible] base news from the ships that took part in the battle of Jutland.

MORE STRINGENT DRY LAW FAVORED

Dr. Colman Complains of Difficulty to Get Liquor For Medicine.

The troubles that physicians have in getting a little brandy or whiskey to administer as medicine to sick children were made the subject of discussion by the people's deputies Saturday morning, while considering the Thatcher bill which makes it prima facie evidence of guilt for any person to pour out liquor, throw away or break bottles and other containers, or otherwise seek to get rid of it when he is about to be arrested for illegal sale, transportaion or possession. The bill was approved for passage.

Mr. Colman, a practicing physician, remarked that it is already hard enough for doctors to obtain "the real stuff" for medical purposes.

"We can't get it from druggists, no matter how badly it may be needed," he complained. "Sometimes, in treating a child, I have been able to borrow a few spoonfuls from a neighbor, and at such times, it is a very fine thing to have."

"Do you carry yours around in a case or a jug?" facetiously inquired Mr. Whitehead, who used to be a practicing physician.

George B. Collins threw the house into laughter by quoting these lines:

'Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight;
Make me a child again, just for tonight."

Doctors Argue Question.

A spirited argument took place between Messrs. Colman and Whitehead as to whether alcoholic liquors possess medical value. The former insisted that they do, while the latter claimed that modern medical science holds the contrary.

An appeal to the members to "vote your honest convictions," was made by Mr. Dyball.

Lenine Can Live But Short Time, Stockholm Says

LONDON, March 31.—Nicolai Lenine's condition is steadily becoming worse and it is believed death cannot be held off more than a few days longer, said a Central News dispatch from Stockholm today, quoting advices received there from Moscow.

There is much political activity at Moscow and Petrograd. According to advices from Copenhagen, quoting the Danish newspaper Politiken, steps already have been taken by Leon Trotzky, commissar for war, to establish a military dictatorship in the event of Lenine's death.

Dodge Officials Submit Demurrer In Salary Case

FREMONT, Neb., March 31.—Another round in the Dodge county officers' salary controversy, by which the farmers and others are endeavoring to have the salary schedule kept in accord with the 23,000 population of the county, will be fought before Judge A. M. Post in district court Monday. Judge Post will sit in the absence of Judge F. W. Button, who is serving on the supreme bench in Lincoln. Officers whose salary was stopped by proceedings which set forth that their drawing the lower schedule was a ruse, have set up a demurrer, contending that the plaintiff has no cause of action.

March Is Big Building Month

Permits Total More Than Third of a Million Dollars.

Building permits for March totaled more than a third of a million dollars, the exact figures being $335,265.50. Of this total $274,965.50 was for residence properties and $60,300 for business purposes.

The February total for this year was $126,435. The January total was $95,698. In March, 1922 the building permits totaled $320,440, showing a gain for 1923.

Permits were taken out this March for 117 buildings, many of them garage buildings at a value of only a few hundred dollars. No large buildings except one school house for $50,000 is included in the total. The severe March storms delayed anticipated building contracts and cut down what might have been a near record total.

A large number of big buildings are being planned and permits for them will probably be issued in April and May.

LADS LOCKED IN A SHOWCASE DIE

Police Investigating Theory Youngsters Were Imprisoned in Vacant Building.

(Associated Press.)

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 31.—After the finding of Richard Jensen, 5 years old, unconscious, and the body of Dean Meecham, 4, in a showcase in a vacant building here last night, police today were investigating the possibility that someone had put the boys in the case and shut the door. The Jensen boy died four hours after he was found, without regaining consciousness.

The two children disappeared last Saturday and since then, posses and officials here and in other towns in southern California had hunted for them. The building in which they were found was within 200 feet of the Meecham home.

Police at first believed the boys had crawled into the showcase and pulled the door shut after them, but discovery of bruises on their bodies and that the door of the case fitted so tightly that it was difficult for a man to open it, altered their opinion.

Policeman Joseph who found the boys said that in his first search of the building he abandoned the effort to open the doors.

"The boys could not have opened the door, but if it was open, they might have been able to close it," in Joseph's opinion. Joseph said a carpenter told him that when he was working in the building recently the door was closed.

Girl Drowns In Water Hole Beside Road

(International News Service.)

LOGANSPORT, Ind., March 31.—Miss Juanita Martin, 20 years old, was drowned in a puddle of water early today when an automobile in which she was riding with five companions overturned on a road near here and pinned the occupants beneath. The other members of the party were only slightly injured.

Miss Martin and her companions had come to Logansport from Kokomo to attend a dance.

Returning early this morning their automobile encountered a bad spot in the road and turned turtle. Recent high water had washed away part of the road and the low place was filled with gravel. The young persons were pinned underneath in about four and a half feet of water.

The smashed curtains and the side of the car held them in, but all managed to crawl out except Miss Martin.

Two Women Held On Forgery Charge

NOT FAVORABLE TO REFERENDUM ON MAKING WAR

House Defeats Act Memorializing Congress to Submit Amendment That Would Leave Military Declaration to People.

REPUBLICANS LEAD IN OPPOSING BILL

Jacoby, Introducer, Refuses to Answer Questions as to Justification of Past Battles and Attitude World War.

Thirty-one republicans and seven democrats in the Nebraska house of representatives went on record Saturday as refusing to tie the hands of the United States government in declaring war until a referendum could be taken on the question, unless the country was invaded by the enemy.

Eighteen democrats, four republicans, and two progressives voted not to do any fighting until an invading army had entered American territory or until an election had been held and a majority vote registered in favor of going to war.

The Jacoby bill memorializing congress to submit a constitutional amendment along these lines was indefinitely postponed by the foregoing division, just before the noonday recess. During the debate, Mr. Axtell, progressive, charged that "the last war was declared because a few people saw fit to go into it," and Mr. Jacoby said this country was brought into it largely because Wall street had loaned four billion dollars to England, France and Italy.

It was noticeable that a considerable number of votes for the bill were cast by members from districts having a large German population.

Jacoby Evades Questions.

Two questions were put to Mr. Jacoby, which he declined to answer. He was asked by Ralph Wilson to name any war in the past which he thought the United States had engaged in against the wishes of the people. Mr. Baldridge propounded the further query:

"How would you have voted on our going into the World War if the question had been submitted?"

The roll call on indefinitely postponing Jacoby's bill, moved by Mr. Garber, resulted as follows:

ALL LINES SHOW GOOD EXPANSION

Review of Business Conditions In Tenth District Very Optimistic.

New High Record In Building —Factories Operating at Near Capacity.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 31.—Expansion in nearly every branch of trade and industry in the Tenth federal reserve district is evidenced in an optimistic monthly review on general business condition, issued by the Reserve Bank of Kansas City here today.

Distribution of merchandise by wholesalers and jobbers in recent weeks has been in line with the heavy volume of trade which featured the first month of 1923, the statement asserts, while sales are now well ahead of those of last year.

Retail trade reports reflect increased buying in the city, town country. Factories are operating at near capacity and new high February records in live stock receipts have been established.

Building for the year to date has registered a new high record for cities of the district, while public work and other lines of construction are proceeding at an exceptionally high rate of activity. Labor generally is well employed.

New Banking Record.

The expanded business has had a quickening influence on banking activities. Combined statements of seventy-eight member banks of the district show an aggregate of $149,613,000 in loans and discounts—a high mark for 1923.

The crop outlook in the Tenth district has greatly improved during the past thirty days. Practically the entire territory was benefitted by rains and snow during March. Fall sown grains came through the winter in much better condition than was anticipated.

Production in basic industries throughout the nation is at the same high level as in January. Since the low point in July, 1921, there has been an increase of 61 per cent.

NEW ANGLE TO BILL HART CASE

Los Angeles District Attorney Says Actor Agreed to Trust Fund.

(Associated Press.)

DENVER, March 31.—William S. Hart, "two-gun man of the movies," despite his emphatical denials, made a $50 a month trust fund for a child alleged by the mother to be Hart's, Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney of Los Angeles, California, declared in a statement here today he had been informed following his own investigation of the case with a view to bringing criminal proceedings. The settlement was made after the woman had engaged an attorney to bring a civil suit, Mr. Woolwine said.

"The case first came to my attention in December, 1918," Mr. Woolwine stated. "The woman with the baby came to my office, declaring Hart was the father, and that he had refused to see her. You know we have a statute compelling a father to support his children, whether illegitimate or lawful, and I took an interest in her story. She gave me her version of the whole case.

Calls Actor to Office.

"Of course, it is necessary to hear both sides to any matter before taking action, so I summoned the actor to my office and confronted him with the claim.

"Hart denied everything denied it with emphasis. But there was something about his maner which led me to believe he was not telling the whole truth.

"I had a transcript made of the woman's declarations. It was a lengthy document, telling in detail the circumstances of her meeting the actor, the subsequent alleged intimacy and the birth of her child in New York City.

Settled Out of Court.

"Preparations were being made to take criminal action against the movie man when the woman employed an attorney and made ready to take civil action. Then I was informed that the case had been settled out of court, that Hart made a trust of $50 a month for the support of the child.

"So far as I know Hart never admitted parentage of the child.

CHARGES PLOT TO HAMPER BUSINESS

Further, the complaint said, they refused to sell to those who continued to handle Proctor and Gamble products.

Among the respondents named by the commission is the Iowa-Nebraska-Minnesota wholesale grocers' association.

BELIEVE BOMB CONFESSION IS A CLEVER RUSE

New York Police Officials Express Belief Story Told By Man Condemned to Death at Los Angeles Is Tale to Stay Execution.

CONFESSES HE MADE WALL STREET MISSILE

William J. Burns, Chief of the United States Secret Service Bureau Brands Admission as "Bunk" When Report Shown Him at Miami.

(Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 31.—The report from Los Angeles last night that Herbert Wilson had told the police he could solve the Wall street bomb explosion mystery, today was received differently in different quarters.

"Bunk," pronounced Chief William J. Burns of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice when the report was shown him at Miami, Fla.

"Interesting if true," commented officials of the Burns detective agency here, when they were informed. They predicted that if Wilson reveals "any names we shall be able to make interesting disclosures."

New York police officials expressed their belief that the bomb confession made by Wilson was a ruse to stay the execution of his sentence for murder. They requested the Los Angeles authorities, however, to forward Wilson's Bertillon record and details of his story so that they might check with information on file here.

Says He Made Bomb.

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—Many details of the purported confession of Herbert Wilson, convicted murderer, alleged mail robber and former evangelist, that he manufactured the explosives in the bomb which killed thirty-nine persons and destroyed property valued at thousands of dollars in Wall street, New York City, September 17, 1920, are withheld from the public "for the present," it was admitted today by county and federal officials.

Wilson is said to have told Los Angeles officials that he had designed the bomb and manufactured some of its most intricate parts at his home here, while under the impression it was to be used by bank burglars who wanted to wreck a vault to hide evidence of having opened it by using the combination. He stated he went east in August, before the September tragedy and at a point near New York City met a man who employed him to manufacture the engine of destruction, which he turned over a few days prior to the explosion.

Wilson himself indicated he was actuated by regret for "earlier mistakes."

Burns Seems Unconcerned.

MIAMI, Fla., March 31.—William J. Burns, chief of the United States investigation bureau, apparently was in no hurry to go to Los Angeles today. It was from that city that reports of the alleged confession by Herbert Wilson came last night. He said he did not expect to arrive in Los Angeles earlier than ten days hence, and denied that he was on his way there in conection with the Wall street bombing affair.

Burns said here today in connection with the alleged confession of Herbert Wilson at Los Angeles yesterday that he had made the bomb that killed thirty-nine persons in Wall street, September 20, 1920, "I cannot recall that the name of Wilson has been mentioned in connection with the bomb plot investigation although we have what we consider to be a good line on the men involved."

It is expected that the process of expulsion will take several weeks and special transportation to the frontier must be provided.

Lincoln Rats Eat More Than $100,000 a Year

There are 57,307 rats in Lincoln, according to a bulletin issued Saturday morning by the city department of health. Figuring that it costs $1.82 a year to keep a rat in fairly presentable condition the bulletin estimates that the city spends about $104,298.74 each year on the rodents. Thus, says the report, any money spent on ridding the city of the vermin would pay enormous returns from an economic standpoint alone, to say nothing of health results.

The department urges that every owner or tenant should clean their premises and strongly suggests that each citizen [illegible]operate with the city du[illegible] second week in April, which [illegible] been designated as annual [illegible]an-up" week.

(Associated Press.)

HARTFORD, Conn., March 31.—Five workmen were killed and several others seriously injured today when the central tower on the New Windsor avenue factory of the Fuller Brush company, collapsed.

The weight of a fifty thousand gallon water tank at the top of the tower, which had been filled for a test, was the apparent cause of the crash. The tank weighed about 150 tons.

Police reserves and several fire companies were sent to the scene to assist in removing the dead and injured from the great heap of debris.

HOUSE BACKSTEPS ON ELECTION LAW

Reconsiders Action Taking County Superintendent Out of Nonpolitical Ballot.

On motion by Mr. Wilson (Dawes) the house took action Saturday to correct its blunder the day before in advancing a bill to third reading which takes county superintendents out from under the nonpolitical election law. He moved to recommit the measure for a special amendment which would remove that feature. The motion prevailed.

A section of loose plaster fell during the forenoon session from the ceiling in the front part of the chamber, which is nearly forty feet high. No one happened to be under it at the time. To guard against injury from this cause, Mr. Keck moved and the house ordered the removal of the remaining loose material.

Among the bills considered in committee of the whole Saturday morning and sent to third reading were:

Permitting establishment of county hospitals in counties of over 3,000 population, by vote of the people; bonds limited to $100,000 and two-thirds vote required. H. R. '13.

County treasurer allowed half of taxes collected from irrigation districts, as office fees, and to retain 25 per cent of such fees as additional salary, not exceeding $500. H. R. 267.

Authorizing any elector to contest result of an election on county seat removal or any other proposition voted upon in a referendum. H. R. 614.

Board of control empowered to remove women prisoners from penitentiary to York reformatory, and use their present quarters for employes or to accommodate more male convicts. H. R. 424.

MORE STRINGENT DRY LAW FAVORED

Dr. Colman Complains of Difficulty to Get Liquor For Medicine.

The troubles that physicians have in getting a little brandy or whiskey to administer as medicine to sick children were made the subject of discussion by the people's deputies Saturday morning, while considering the Thatcher bill which makes it prima facie evidence of guilt for any person to pour out liquor, throw away or break bottles and other containers, or otherwise seek to get rid of it when he is about to be arrested for illegal sale, transportaion or possession. The bill was approved for passage.

Mr. Colman, a practicing physician, remarked that it is already hard enough for doctors to obtain "the real stuff" for medical purposes.

"We can't get it from druggists, no matter how badly it may be needed," he complained. "Sometimes, in treating a child, I have been able to borrow a few spoonfuls from a neighbor, and at such times, it is a very fine thing to have."

"Do you carry yours around in a case or a jug?" facetiously inquired Mr. Whitehead, who used to be a practicing physician.

George B. Collins threw the house into laughter by quoting these lines:

"Backward, turn backward, O Time
in your flight;
Make me a child again, just for tonight."

Doctors Argue Question.

A spirited argument took place between Messrs. Colman and Whitehead as to whether alcoholic liquors possess medical value. The former insisted that they do, while the latter claimed that modern medical science holds the contrary.

An appeal to the members to "vote your honest convictions," was made by Mr. Dyball.

March Is Big Building Month

Permits Total More Than Third of a Million Dollars.

Building permits for March totaled more than a third of a million dollars, the exact figures being $335,265.50. Of this total $274,965.50 was for residence properties and $60,300 for business purposes.

The February total for this year was $126,435. The January total was $95,698. In March, 1922 the building permits totaled $320,440, showing a gain for 1923.

Permits were taken out this March for 117 buildings, many of them garage buildings at a value of only a few hundred dollars. No large buildings except one school house for $50,000 is included in the total. The severe March storms delayed anticipated- building- contracts- and- cut down what might have been a near record total.

A large number of big buildings are being planned and permits for them will probably be issued in April and May.

LADS LOCKED IN A SHOWCASE DIE

Police Investigating Theory Youngsters Were Imprisoned in Vacant Building.

(Associated Press.)

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 31.—After the finding of Richard Jensen, 5 years old, unconscious, and the body of Dean Meecham, 4, in a showcase in a vacant building here last night, police today were investigating the possibility that someone had put the boys in the case and shut the door. The Jensen boy died four hours after he was found, without regaining consciousness.

The two children disappeared last Saturday and since then, posses and officials here and in other towns in southern California had hunted for them. The building in which they were found was within 200 feet of the Meecham home.

Police at first believed the boys had crawled into the showcase and pulled the door shut after them, but discovery of bruises on their bodies and that the door of the case fitted so tightly that it was difficult for a man to open it, altered their opinion.

Policeman Joseph who found the boys said that in his first search of the building he abandoned the effort to open the doors.

"The boys could not have opened the door, but if it was open, they might have been able to close it," in Joseph's opinion. Joseph said a carpenter told him that when he was working in the building recently the door was closed.

Girl Drowns In Water Hole Beside Road

(International News Service.)

LOGANSPORT, Ind., March 31.—Miss Juanita Martin, 20 years old, was drowned in a puddle of water early today when an automobile in which she was riding with five companions overturned on a road near here and pinned the occupants beneath. The other members of the party were only slightly injured.

Miss Martin and her companions had come to Logansport from Kokomo to attend a dance.

Returning early this morning their automobile encountered a bad spot in the road and turned turtle. Recent high water had washed away part of the road and the low place was filled with gravel. The young persons were pinned underneath in about four and a half feet of water.

The smashed curtains and the side of the car held them in, but all managed to crawl out except Miss Martin.

NOT FAVORABLE TO REFERENDUM ON MAKING WAR

House Defeats Act Memorializing Congress to Submit Amendment That Would Leave Military Declaration to People.

REPUBLICANS LEAD IN OPPOSING BILL

Jacoby, Introducer, Refuses to Answer Questions as to Justification of Past Battles and Attitude World War.

Thirty-one republicans and seven democrats in the Nebraska house of representatives went on record Saturday as refusing to tie the hands of the United States government in declaring war until a referendum could be taken on the question, unless the country was invaded by the enemy.

Eighteen democrats, four republicans, and two progressives voted not to do any fighting until an invading army had entered American territory or until an election had been held and a majority vote registered in favor of going to war.

The Jacoby bill memorializing congress to submit a constitutional amendment along these lines was indefinitely postponed by the foregoing division, just before the noonday recess. During the debate, Mr. Axtell, progressive, charged that 'the last war was declared because a few people saw fit to go into it," and Mr. Jacoby said this country was brought into it largely because Wall street had loaned four billion dollars to England, France and Italy.

It was noticeable that a considerable number of votes for the bill were cast by members from districts having a large German population.

Jacoby Evades Questions.

Two questions were put to Mr. Jacoby, which he declined to answer. He was asked by Ralph Wilson to name any war in the past which he thought the United States had engaged in against the wishes of the people. Mr. Baldridge propounded the further query:

"How would you have voted on our going into the World War if the question had been submitted?"

The roll call on indefinitely postponing Jacoby's bill, moved by Mr. Garber, resulted as follows:

ALL LINES SHOW GOOD EXPANSION

Review of Business Conditions In Tenth District Very Optimistic.

New High Record In Building —Factories Operating at Near Capacity.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 31.—Expansion in nearly every branch of trade and industry in the Tenth federal reserve district is evidenced in an optimistic monthly review on general business condition, issued by the Reserve Bank of Kansas City here today.

Distribution of merchandise by wholesalers and jobbers in recent weeks has been in line with the heavy volume of trade which featured the first month of 1923, the statement asserts, while sales are now well ahead of those of last year.

Retail trade reports reflect increased buying in the city, town country. Factories are operating at near capacity and new high February records in live stock receipts have been established.

Building for the year to date has registered a new high record for cities of the district, while public work and other lines of construction are proceeding at an exceptionally high rate of activity. Labor generally is well employed.

New Banking Record.

The expanded business has had a quickening influence on banking activities. Combined statements of seventy-eight member banks of the district show an aggregate of $449,613,000 in loans and discounts—a high mark for 1923.

The crop outlook in the Tenth district has greatly improved during the past thirty days. Practically the entire territory was benefitted by rains and snow during March. Fall sown grains came through the winter in much better condition than was anticipated.

Production in basic industries throughout the nation is at the same high level as in January. Since the low point in July, 1921, there has been an increase of 61 per cent.

NEW ANGLE TO BILL HART CASE

Los Angeles District Attorney Says Actor Agreed to Trust Fund.

(Associated Press.)

DENVER, March 31.—William S. Hart, "two-gun man of the movies," despite his emphatical denials, made a $50 a month trust fund for a child alleged by the mother to be Hart's, Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney of Los Angeles, California, declared in a statement here today he had been informed following his own investigation of the case with a view to bringing criminal proceedings. The settlement was made after the woman had engaged an attorney to bring a civil suit, Mr. Woolwine said.

"The case first came to my attention in December, 1918," Mr. Woolwine stated. "The woman with the baby came to my office, declaring Hart was the father, and that he had refused to see her. You know we have a statute compelling a father to support his children, whether illegitimate or lawful, and I took an interest in her story. She gave me her version of the whole case.

Calls Actor to Office.

"Of course, it is necessary to hear both sides to any matter before taking action, so I summoned theactor to my office and confronted him with the claim.

"Hart denied everything denied it with emphasis. But there was something about his maner which led me to believe he was not telling the whole truth.

"I had a transcript made of the woman's declarations. It was a lengthy document, telling in detail the circumstances of her meeting the actor, the subsequent alleged intimacy and the birth of her child in New York City.

Settled Out of Court.

"Preparations were being made to take criminal action against the movie man when the woman employed an attorney and made ready to take civil action. Then I was informed that the case had been settled out of court, that Hart made a trust of $50 a month for the support of the child.

"So far as I know Hart never admitted parentage of the child.

Among the respondents named by the commission is the Iowa-Nebraska-Minnesota wholesale grocers' association.

BELIEVE BOMB CONFESSION IS A CLEVER RUSE

New York Police Officials Express Belief Story Told By Man Condemned to Death at Los Angeles Is Tale to Stay Execution.

CONFESSES HE MADE WALL STREET MISSILE

William J. Burns, Chief of the United States Secret Service Bureau Brands Admission as "Bunk" When Report Shown Him at Miami.

(Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 31.—The report from Los Angeles last night that Herbert Wilson had told the police he could solve the Wall street bomb explosion mystery, today was received differently in different quarters.

"Bunk," pronounced Chief William J. Burns of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice when the report was shown him at Miami, Fla.

"Interesting if true," commented officials of the Burns detective agency here, when they were informed. They predicted that if Wilson reveals "any names we shall be able to make interesting disclosures."

New York police officials expressed their belief that the bomb confession made by Wilson was a ruse to stay the execution of his sentence for murder. They requested the Los Angeles authorities, however, to forward Wilson's Bertillon record and detaails of his story so that they might check with information on file here.

Says He Made Bomb.

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—Many details of the purported confession of Herbert Wilson, convicted murderer, alleged mail robber and former evangelist, that he manufactured the explosives in the bomb which killed thirty-nine persons and destroyed property valued at thousands of dollars in Wall street, New York City, September 17, 1920, are withheld from the public "for the present," it was admitted today by county and federal officials.

Wilson is said to have told Los Angeles officials that he had designed the bomb and manufactured some of its most intricate parts at his home here, while under the impression it was to be used by bank burglars who wanted to wreck a vault to hide evidence of having opened it by using the combination. He stated he went east in August, before the September tragedy and at a point near New York City met a man who employed him to manufacture the engine of destruction, which he turned over a few days prior to the explosion.

Wilson himself indicated he was actuated by regret for "earlier mistakes."

Burns Seems Unconcerned.

MIAMI, Fla., March 31.—William J. Burns, chief of the United States investigation bureau, apparently was in no hurry to go to Los Angeles today. It was from that city that reports of the alleged confession by Herbert Wilson came last night. He said he did not expect to arrive in Los Angeles earlier than ten days hence, and denied that he was on his way there in conection with the Wall street bombing affair.

Burns said here today in connection with the alleged confession of Herbert Wilson at Los Angeles yesterday that he had made the bomb that killed thirty-nine persons in Wall street, September 20, 1920, "I cannot recall that the name of Wilson has been mentioned in connection with the bomb plot investigation although we have what we consider to be a good line on the men involved."

OIL INSPECTION FEES EXCESSIVE

Ruling Against State in Case Involving Thousands of Dollars.

High Court Decision May Greatly Affect Pending Legislation.

The suit brought by the Standard, Century and most of the other oil companies operating in Nebraska to prevent the state collecting a fee of 6 cents per barrel for gasoline inspection, which was decided in favor of the state in Douglas county district court, was reversed by the supreme court Friday afternoon and remanded for a new trial.

In addition to $43,000 fees paid since September under protest, the case involves all similar fees collected in the future. The inspection is made by the bureau of food, drugs, and oil in the department of agriculture, and is one of the main sources of revenue in that department. In the fiscal year of 1922, the income from oil fees was $150,000.

The supreme court upholds the oil companies' contention that 6 cents per barrel is in excess of the actual expense of the inspection made, and quotes from a recent federal supreme court decision along the same line. It is suggested, in the decision, that the amount could be collected as an excise tax under legislation as a regular source of state income, but not under the head of fees.

Officials in the agriculture department say it is impossible to determine exactly how much it costs to inspect a barrel of oil, as the same men inspect many other things, such as hotels, groceries, meat markets and factories, while in the same towns. There is no doubt it is asserted, that in some cases it costs the state more than 6 cents fee now collected.

A bill is pending in the senate to dispense with all oil inspection fees while retaining the legal standards on gasoline.

Declare Student Confesses Theft

OMAHA, March 31.—Ed Manger, alias Ed McDonald, 21, 3710 Cass street, said to be a student at the University of Nebraska, confessed to Omaha police Friday the theft of a car last December from W. E. Robinson, 413 North Thirty-ninth street, according to the officers.

He also stole a set of license plates belonging to C. L. Tate, police allege, which he put on the stolen car. Ever since then, they say, he has used the machine to drive between Lincoln and Omaha and to entertain co-eds at the university. He rented a garage in the west part of the city, where he kept the car while in Omaha, and left it standing on the campus while in Lincoln, it is alleged.

The name of Ed Manger does not appear on the registration books at the state university or the agricultural college, school officials said Saturday.

CITY CANDIDATES GIVE PLATFORMS

Outline Their Beliefs to East Lincoln Civic League Friday Evening.

Most of Them Favor Municipal Public Utilities—All Back Coal Yard.

A meeting that resembled more a "love feast" than a meeting of rival candidates for city offices was held Friday evening at Elliott school when the candidates spoke at a meeting of the East Lincoln Civic league. Six candidates explained their platforms and views on municipal problems. None of the present councilmen were present.

All of the candidates were in favor of the municipal coal yard and believed in the extension of city owned public utilities if the private owned institutions failed to serve the public properly.

Charles A. Lord, candidate for mayor, stated that he favored the municipal coal yard under efficient operation, a municipal market for produce, municipal ice should the price become burdensome, and water in any quantity and of high quality. He stated thot the present ice focilities seemed highly satisfactory.

Candidates usually are, and should be elected on what they have done in the past rather than romises made on the eve of election, Paul Goss believed. Mr. Goss favors municipal ownership of a coal yard and public market and other public utilities at a moderate rate. He especially urged the establishment of parks and playgrounds for children.

Allen P. Cowgill based his claim for distinction on his technical education which fits him for the position of water and light commissioner admirably, his supporters believe. Mr. Cowgill, a retired army officer, served many years in the army in actual engineering work. He has been educated in electrical, mechanical and civil engineering at the University of Nebraska, West Point and in the U. S. army engineer school.

The necessity of good parks and good streets in Lincoln was emphasized by F. A. Good, who desires the position of street commissioner. Mr. Good stated that there were no parks north of O street. He declared in favor of municipal ownership when at all necessary but stated that he did not believe that individual effort should be smothered too far.

W. S. Waters came out flatly for municipal ownership and said that "no man should profiteer in the necessities of life." He made a stand for better law enforcement with particular reference to the prohibition law. Either the laws should be taken from the statute books or they should be enforced, he said. Mr. Waters pledged himself to do anything possible to further the cause of better education.

E. Taylor, in a very brief talk, said that he believed that the oath of office was almost sufficient platform for any man provided he lived up to it. He favored the municipal coal yard. A zoning law to do away with poor building conditions was also suggested.

Report Shows No Lack of Work In Lincoln in March

Examiner Charles H. Boles, in charge of the U. S. and State Free Employment office reports that there were 336 registrations made at the employment office for work during the month of March. Requests for help numbered 305 and 284 were reported placed.

The call for farm hands exceeded the supply. During the month fifty-nine men were sent to farms. A few days ago a call came in from South Dakota to send farm hands there.

During the snow storm every man who applied at the office was given work immediately shoveling snow.

About twenty five men were given steady employment during the month and the outlook is for more men to be employed in the near future in the Lincoln building program.

NO REHEARING IN BANK TAX ACTION

Supreme Court Refuses Attorney General's Request —Ruling Favors Banks.

Cancels $750,000 of 1922 Assessment — Directly Affects New Laws Proposed.

The supreme court Friday afternoon denied the application of Attorney General Spillman for a rehearing in the bank tax case. The suit was originally brought by the State bank of Omaha as a test case.

By this decision both state and national bank taxes for 1922 are collectible at the intangible or one-fourth regular rate, which reduces the state's estimated income by about $80,000 and the various smaller governmental sub-divisions by $670,000.

When the intangible law went into effect last year it was not supposed to affect banks, which were assessed as they had always been, at the full rate. A federal supreme court decision, however, ruled that states could show no discrimination between national banks and other monied capital, which put them under the one-fourth rate. The state banks immediately brought the test suit, which was decided in their favor in supreme court, mainly to avoid discrimination in favor of the national banks.

Congress recently passed a law giving states the right to tax national banks as they see fit, and a bill is pending in the legislature to put all banks under full assessment for 1923, in addition to another measure calling for the repeal of the whole intangible tax system.

The senate also passed a bill, over the protests of the bankers, seeking to legalize the taxes assessed in 1922, under a provision in the recent federal statute giving states this right. As the application for a rehearing has been denied, it is thought the bill will be allowed to die, unless further court action is taken.

RATES STAND AS MAXIMUM ONLY

Osterman Measure Advanced to Third Reading In House.

Rates fixed by the railway commission are to stand as a maximum only under the terms of H. R. 598, by Osterman, which was advanced to third reading in the representative diet Friday afternoon. Common carriers will be allowed to compete by charging less than these rates, but will not be permitted to charge more.

The same rule will apply where city councils fix the rates for service of gas and electric light plants, heating plants, or water works.

Objection was offered to the bill by Mr. Hughes on the score that a big concern might lower its rates in some particular locality so as to drive a small competitor out of business.

"Then if the railway commission did its duty," responded Mr. Osterman, "it would immediately order the big corporation to lower its rates elsewhere to correspond, and the people all over the state would get the benefit of a reduction."

Mr. Ernst, supporting the bill, said that at his home town of Kimball the agent for a large carrier admits that rates are too high but says they can't be reduced because the interstate commerce commission won't allow it.

The case of Henry Ford asking for authority to lower freight rates on his own line of railroad, and being refused leave to do so by the interstate commerce commission, acting under the Esch-Cummins law, on the ground that it would be unfair to other lines, was also brought into the argument.

Mr. Smith of Douglas county mentioned that the state railway commission had practically forbidden bus lines to operate in competition with interurban railroads, while Mr. Neff told about the nine months' strike of telephone patrons at Bloomfield because the railway commission stood behind the company for an increase.

Judgeship Matter Settled By House

Abolishing one judge in the 10th judicial district by transferring Clay county from that district back to the 7th, where it formerly was, in order to give the 13th district an additional judge to take care of a heavy volume of business, looked good to the lower branch of the legislature, which put its O. K. on a combination bill carrying these provisions Friday afternoon.

Arthur county is switched from the 17th to the 13th district, as the two judges will be able to take care of it in addition to the other counties in the latter district.

Three different motions were made to postpone the bill indefinitely, but the house voted down the proposal. It also rejected substitute motions to transfer Nuckolls county from the 7th to the 10th, leaving two judges in that district, and to change Dawson from the 13th to the 12th, thus relieving the judge in the 13th of part of his work.

Mr. Jacoby sought to hang an amendment on to the bill cutting off one of the four distrit judges in Lancaster county, but this also failed.

Mr. Hardin, one of the joint authors of the measure, put in an amendment which was adopted leaving Clay county in the 10th until January 1, 1925, or until the two judges in that district have served out their present terms. After that the 10th will have but one judge.

House Democrats Continue Fight For Lower Taxes

House democrats, in caucus at the Lindell hotel Friday evening, decided to continue their fight for reduced appropriations and lower taxes. The action of the finance committee in cutting general maintenance appropriations more than $500,000 below those in the committee's bill as originally introduced was endorsed and support of the minority was pledged to keeping expenditures at the lowest possible amount.

Representative Paul Dennis, one of the four democratic members of the finance committee, gave a detailed explanation of the changes made in the bill. He answered all questions in a manner showing that he had made a thorough study of the bill and familiarized himself with all of its provisions.

While no attempt was made to bind the caucus members formally to a particular plan of action, all the speeches made were in favor of sustaining the finance committee wherever it had cut below Governor Bryan's recommendations and to oppose any items increased above those in the governor's budget bill. Two or three who had talked with Mr. Bryan said this course would have his approval.

OIL INSPECTION FEES EXCESSIVE

Ruling Against State in Case Involving Thousands of Dollars.

High Court Decision May Greatly Affect Pending Legislation.

The suit brought by the Standard, Century and most of the other oil companies operating in Nebraska to prevent the state collecting a fee of 6 cents per barrel for gasoline inspection, which was decided in favor of the state in Douglas county district court, was reversed by the supreme court Friday afternoon and remanded for a new trial.

In addition to $43,000 fees paid since September under protest, the case involves all similar fees collected in the future. The inspection is made by the bureau of food, drugs, and oil in the department of agriculture, and is one of the main sources of revenue in that department. In the fiscal year of 1922, the income from oil fees was $150,000.

The supreme court upholds the oil companies' contention that 6 cents per barrel is in excess of the actual expense of the inspection made, and quotes from a recent federal supreme court decision along the same line. It is suggested, in the decision, that the amount could be collected as an excise tax under legislation as a regular source of state income, but not under the head of fees.

Officials in the agriculture department say it is impossible to determine exactly how much it costs to inspect a barrel of oil, as the same men inspect many other things, such as hotels, groceries, meat markets and factories, while in the same towns. There is no doubt it is asserted, that in some cases it costs the state more than 6 cents fee now collected.

A bill is pending in the senate to dispense with all oil inspection fees while retaining the legal standards on gasoline.

Declare Student Confesses Theft

OMAHA, March 31.—Ed Manger, alias Ed McDonald, 21, 3740 Cass street, said to be a student at the University of Nebraska, confessed to Omaha police Friday the theft of a car last December from W. E. Robinson, 413 North Thirty-ninth street, according to the officers.

He also stole a set of license plates belonging to C. L. Tate, police allege, which he put on the stolen car.

Ever since then, they say, he has used the machine to drive between Lincoln and Omaha and to entertain co-eds at the university. He rented a garage in the west part of the city, where he kept the car while in Omaha, and left it standing on the campus while in Lincoln, it is alleged.

The name of Ed Manger does not appear on the registration books at the state university or the agricultural college, school officials said Saturday.

CITY CANDIDATES GIVE PLATFORMS

Outline Their Beliefs to East Lincoln Civic League Friday Evening.

Most of Them Favor Municipal Public Utilities—All Back Coal Yard.

A meeting that resembled more a "love feast" than a meeting of rival candidates for city offices was held Friday evening at Elliott school when the candidates spoke at a meeting of the East Lincoln Civic league. Six candidates explained their platforms and views on municipal problems. None of the present councilmen were present.

All of the candidates were in favor of the municipal coal yard and believed in the extension of city owned public utilities if the private owned institutions failed to serve the public properly.

Charles A. Lord, candidate for mayor, stated that he favored the municipal coal yard under efficient operation, a municipal market for produce, municipal ice should the price become burdensome, and water in any quantity and of high quality. He stated thot the present ice focilities seemed highly satisfactory.

Candidates usually are, and should be elected on what they have done in the past rather than romises made on the eve of election, Paul Goss believed. Mr. Goss favors municipal ownership of a coal yard and public market and other public utilities at a moderate rate. He especially urged the establishment of parks and playgrounds for children.

Allen P. Cowgill based his claim for distinction on his technical education which fits him for the position of water and light commissioner admirably, his supporters believe. Mr. Cowgill, a retired army officer, served many years in the army in actual engineering work. He has been educated in electrical, mechanical and civil engineering at the University of Nebraska, West Point and in the U. S. army engineer school.

The necessity of good parks and good streets in Lincoln was emphasized by F. A. Good, who desires the position of street commissioner. Mr. Good stated that there were no parks north of O street. He declared in favor of municipal ownership when at all necessary but stated that he did not believe that individual effort should be smothered too far.

W. S. Waters came out flatly for municipal ownership and said that "no man should profiteer in the necessities of life." He made a stand for better law enforcement with particular reference to the prohibition law. Either the laws should be taken from the statute books or they should be enforced, he said. Mr. Waters pledged himself to do anything possible to further the cause of better education.

E. Taylor, in a very brief talk, said that he believed that the oath of office was almost sufficient platform for any man provided he lived up to it. He favored the municipal coal yard. A zoning law to do away with poor building conditions was also suggested.

Report Shows No Lack of Work In Lincoln in March

Examiner Charles H. Boles, in charge of the U. S. and State Free Employment office reports that there were 336 registrations made at the employment office for work during the month of March. Requests for help numbered 305 and 284 were reported placed.

The call for farm hands exceeded the supply. During the month fifty-nine men were sent to farms. A few days ago a call came in from South Dakota to send farm hands there.

During the snow storm every man who applied at the office was given work immediately shoveling snow.

About twenty five men were given steady employment during the month and the outlook is for more men to be employed in the near future in the Lincoln building program.

NO REHEARING IN BANK TAX ACTION

Supreme Court Refuses Attorney General's Request—Ruling Favors Banks.

Cancels $750,000 of 1922 Assessment — Directly Affects New Laws Proposed.

The supreme court Friday afternoon denied the application of Attorney General Spillman for a rehearing in the bank tax case. The suit was originally brought by the State bank of Omaha as a test case.

By this decision both state and national bank taxes for 1922 are collectible at the intangible or one-fourth regular rate, which reduces the state's estimated income by about $80,000 and the various smaller governmental sub-divisions by $670,000.

When the intangible law went into effect last year it was not supposed to affect banks, which were assessed as they had always been, at the full rate. A federal supreme court decision, however, ruled that states could show no discrimination between national banks and other monied capital, which put them under the one-fourth rate. The state banks immediately brought the test suit, which was decided in their favor in supreme court, mainly to avoid discrimination in favor of the national banks.

Congress recently passed a law giving states the right to tax national banks as they see fit, and a bill is pending in the legislature to put all banks under full assessment for 1923, in addition to another measure calling for the repeal of the whole intangible tax system.

The senate also passed a bill, over the protests of the bankers, seeking to legalize the taxes assessed in 1922, under a provision in the recent federal statute giving states this right. As the application for a rehearing has been denied, it is thought the bill will be allowed to die, unless further court action is taken.

RATES STAND AS MAXIMUM ONLY

Osterman Measure Advanced to Third Reading In House.

Rates fixed by the railway commission are to stand as a maximum only under the terms of H. R. 598, by Osterman, which was advanced to third reading in the representative diet Friday afternoon. Common carriers will be allowed to compete by charging less than these rates, but will not be permitted to charge more.

The same rule will apply where city councils fix the rates for service of gas and electric light plants, heating plants, or water works.

Objection was offered to the bill by Mr. Hughes on the score that a big concern might lower its rates in some particular locality so as to drive a small competitor out of business.

"Then if the railway commission did its duty," responded Mr. Osterman, "it would immediately order the big corporation to lower its rates elsewhere to correspond, and the people all over the state would get the benefit of a reduction."

Mr. Ernst, supporting the bill, said that at his home town of Kimball the agent for a large carrier admits that rates are too high but says they can't be reduced because the interstate commerce commission won't allow it.

The case of Henry Ford asking for authority to lower freight rates on his own line of railroad, and being refused leave to do so by the interstate commerce commission, acting under the Esch-Cummins law, on the ground that it would be unfair to other lines, was also brought into the argument.

Mr. Smith of Douglas county mentioned that the state railway commission had practically forbidden bus lines to operate in competition with interurban railroads, while Mr. Neff told about the nine months' strike of telephone patrons at Bloomfield because the railway commission stood behind the company for an increase.

Judgeship Matter Settled By House

Abolishing one judge in the 10th judicial district by transferring Clay county from that district back to the 7th, where it formerly was, in order to give the 13th district an additional judge to take care of a heavy volume of business, looked good to the lower branch of the legislature, which put its O. K. on a combination bill carrying these provisions Friday afternoon.

Arthur county is switched from the 17th to the 13th district, as the two judges will be able to take care of it in addition to the other counties in the latter district.

Three different motions were made to postpone the bill indefinitely, but the house voted down the proposal. It also rejected substitute motions to transfer Nuckolls county from the 7th to the 10th, leaving two judges in that district, and to change Dawson from the 13th to the 12th, thus relieving the judge in the 13th of part of his work.

Mr. Jacoby sought to hang an amendment on to the bill cutting off one of the four distrit judges in Lancaster county, but this also failed.

Mr. Hardin, one of the joint authors of the measure, put in an amendment which was adopted leaving Clay county in the 10th until January 1, 1925, or until the two judges in that district have served out their present terms. After that the 10th will have but one judge.

House Democrats Continue Fight For Lower Taxes

House democrats, in caucus at the Lindell hotel Friday evening, decided to continue their fight for reduced appropriations and lower taxes. The action of the finance committee in cutting general maintenance appropriations more than $500,000 below those in the committee's bill as originally introduced was endorsed and support of the minority was pledged to keeping expenditures at the lowest possible amount.

Representative Paul Dennis, one of the four democratic members of the finance committee, gave a detailed explanation of the changes made in the bill. He answered all questions in a manner showing that he had made a thorough study of the bill and familiarized himself with all of its provisions.

While no attempt was made to bind the caucus members formally to a particular plan of action, all the speeches made were in favor of sustaining the finance committee wherever it had cut below Governor Bryan's recommendations and to oppose any items increased above those in the governor's budget bill. Two or three who had talked with Mr. Bryan said this course would have his approval.

Ball Players Demand New Deal

DEMAND CARDS IN GAME OF DIAMOND

Players Insist On Right to Membership On Governing Body of Baseball.

(International News Service.)

CHICAGO, March 31.—An ultimatum demanding that the major league baseball players' union be given representation on the national commission was received at the office of Commissioner K. M. Landis here today. Such representation, it is asserted, "is absolutely necesary in order that the players may be assured that they are being fairly dealt with by the club owners."

Judge Landis, Ban Johnson, president of the American league, and John Heydler, president of the National league, at present constitute the national baseball commission.

Ultimatum to Landis.

The ultimatum was sent from Milwaukee by Ray Cannon, an attorney and formerly a ball player, who organized the ball players' union. The communication was signed by the executive board of the national baseball players' association.

"After you have made laws and regulations binding upon the ball players," the communication sent to Landis, Johnson and Heydler declares, "you have laid down ironclad rules to be enforced against the ball players without the players being given a voice in the creation of the laws governing them.

Players Never Called In.

"You have set the terms of the players' contracts and have passed upon all the vital baseball problems which directly affect the ball players and rendered decisions without the advice and counsel of the players.

"For these reasons the National Baseball Players' association demands a representative be given a seat, a voice and a vote on the national baseball commission and full power to participate in all its business and sessions."

Early Hearing Demanded.

The national commission is requested to give the ball players' demand "early consideration" and advise whether or not the demand will be granted or refused.

Cannon over the long distance telephone today would not say what action would be taken in the event the national commission rejected the demand. He said the executive board would meet as soon as the reply was received.

Landis Touring South.

Judge Landis was not in his office when the communication arrived. He is in Florida, touring the spring training camps. His secretary, Leslie O'Connor, declined to comment.

President Johnson said: "It is my understanding that American league ball players are not interested in this union."

The ultimatum from the union does not mention the American league, but asserts that the "great majority of the players in the National league have become members of the association."

SHOWS HIS HEELS TO SKATING TRIO

Dan O'Leary, Veteran Walker, Victorious In Race at Let's Go Rink.

Dan O'Leary of Chicago, world's champion long distance pedestrain 50 years ago and still a demon walker at 82, showed his heels to a trio of Lincoln roller skaters Friday night in a special race at the Let's Go rink, Twenty-first and W streets.

Under the conditions of the race, Raymond Wright, Roy Potter and Tom Hrdlick were to skate three miles, each covering a third of the distance, while veteran Dan was was walking one mile heel-and--toe style.

It was anybody's race right up to the finish, but Dan was three yards to the good, being timed in 9 minutes and 2 seconds.

Second Race Tonight.

The skaters, miffed at their defeat, immediately challenged Dan to a second race, which will be staged Saturday night at 9 o'clock at the same rink. A purse of $50 will be at stake.

A big crowd saw the race and a number of Lincoln's old-timers, who witnessed Dan in action here nearly 40 years ago, turned out to the Friday contest.

The average bozo is satisfied to walk a mile in 15 minutes but Dan O'Leary could walk it in 7 minutes in his prime and at 82 years turns the trick in 9 minutes. Some walking!

Dan will turn his 83d milestone next June and plans to hit the road the day of his anniversary, walking 100 miles in the 24 hours.

(International News Service.)

NEW YORK, March 31.—For the first time in many, long disinteresting years, the American league race in 1923 promises to be something more than a two-team go-as-you please. The Yanks, champions for two years hand running, figure to repeat on the strength of their pitching, but the off-season improvement in the Tigers, White Sox and Athletics make the affair an open one from the outset.

As far as actual results in the training camp are concerned the Yanks are probably the worst looking ball club in the American league at the moment. However, the season runs through 154 games and the pitching of Hoyt, Bush, Shawkey, Mays, Jones and Pennock is certain to carry the club to a point at or near the top.

Yanks Have Better Pitching.

The Yankees figure to get even better pitching than they did last year, because Mays and Hoyt are due for a comeback. Both are comparatively young, and Mays, who cannot show at his best until his fingers brush the grass in delivering his underhand ball, has reduced his waistline to reasonable proportions.

Bush is not due to repeat the amazing results he obtained in 1922. He pitched somewhat above the well and widely known head on that occasion, but Pennock will more than balance the difference if Huggins picks the spots for his left-handed ways.

Ruth, now an earnest, sombre individual, probably never will attain the heights that were once his, but he will be in there playing baseball and not the sure thing in the second race at Belmont Park. Otherwise, the Yanks are much the same ball club, except that Bob Meusel seems to have realized that business is business.

Tigers Lusty Sluggers.

The Tigers will muster a team batting well above .325 and with improved pitching are believed to be the logical contender. Give Cobb the working margin of a couple of consistent pitchers and it is more than likely than he would rush through the rest of the field like a prairie storm. He has everything else.

So have the White Sox, thanks to the addition of Willie Kamm. The Sox haven't got a weakness outside of the box and are a faster, brainer and more versatile outfit than the Tigers. It wouldn't surprise the writer at all if the Sox ran one-two. Gleason needs another pitcher to strengthen along with Faber, Leverett and Blankenship.

Browns Not Up to Standard.

And what of the Browns, who finished a scant game outside the pennant last year? On paper they haven't improved in any way. In fact, they have retrograded. It is known now that Sisler is hors-de-hospital for the first month of the season. The Browns without Sisler are like Dr. Munyon without the index finger. In addition, they have very careworn pitching, unless Lee Fohl has developed a couple of plausible youngsters, reports of which are yet to reach the writer's finely attuned ear.

The Indians are an improved ball club, but will do well to finish in the first division what with the obvious improvement in the Athletics. The later are figured to come up for air for the first time since 1911.

Neither the Senators nor Red Sox are at all dangerous.

TEN-PIN SHOOTERS TOP ALL RECORDS

Three A. B. C. Marks Already Surpassed, and Maulers Go After Fourth.

MILWAUKEE, March 31. — Pin shooters in the American Bowling Congress tournament set out today to break the one remaining world's record—the individual count of 729, made by Wallie Lundgren of Chicago at Toledo last year.

Former records in the five-man, doubles and all-events were shattered in the late rolling Friday afternoon.

Possibility that the individual high mark would be passed tonight existed with the announcement that Lundgren would take the alleys on the early squad with the Chateau Fritzi-Scherrs of Chicago. Lundgren is paired with the veteran Al Toemmel this year and will roll his minor events Sunday.

Never in the history of the American Bowling Congress have such scores been made as were rolled in Friday's bowling. Bowling fans watching the progress of the meet expect even higher marks to be set before the close of the tournament, as some of the country's strongest teams are yet to be heard from.

First place in the doubles event changed hands twice within one minute Friday. Schultz and Mack of Detroit rolled 1,306 and then stood by and watched Charles Daw and Finnes Wilson of Milwaukee close with 1,358, a new world's record.

Less than an hour later Daw broke two more records, rolling a 602 series in his singles and making 2,014 for the record in the all-events. Standings of the leaders:

Before deciding upon it, however, he said, he would confer with Tex Rickard, who has obtained an option on McTigue and tentatively arranged to match the Irish-American with Georges Carpentier at Boyle's Thirty Acres, also in June.

ANOTHER DEPOT AGENT ROBBED

Holdups Visit Station at Schuyler and Escape With $60 In Cash.

May Be Same Gang Which Staged Rock Island Robbery In Lincoln.

Two men and a woman held up the station agent for the Union Pacific at Schuyler at 10:30 Friday night, escaping with $60 in cash, according to a report received by Captain Frank Ellis of the police department from the sheriff at Schuyler. The trio, according to the report, was traveling in a Chevrolet automobile with a Kansas number.

The woman was described as of light complexion, and wearing a brown coat. One of the men had an automatic revolver, was light haired and wore a heavy grap cap and blue serge suit.

According to Captain Walter Anderson, the description given of the holdups tallies closely with that of the gang which held up the Rock Island depot here several months ago. This is the fifth depot job to be pulled recently, four being reported on Burlington lines. Officials of the Burlington are making an organized effort to stop the activities of the robbers in their territory.

COBB CONFIDES PENNANT HOPES

Ty Thinks Tigers Cream of His League and Expects To Grab Gonfalon.

(International News Service.)

WALLA WALLA, Wash. March 31—Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, confidently expects to win the pennant in the American league this year.

This was the information received here by Richard Jackson, of San Francisco, former president of the Central league, in a letter from the Georgia Peach, with whom he has maintained a personal friendship for years.

In mentioning reasons the Detroit manager thinks in the first place, he will have a great aggregation this year and he especially mentions three former northwest stars. They are Herman Pillette, former Portland Coast league pitcher; Lew Blue, star Portland Coast league first sacker for several years, and Sylvester Johnson, who got his early training as a twirler for the Franklin high school nine of Portland. Cobb declares in his letter that Pillette and Johnson are real finds as mound artists, and that Lew Blue is the peer of all the American league first basemen.

Carp Seeks Whirl At French Heavy

PARIS, March 31.—Georges Carpentier, formerly light-heavy weight champion of Europe, today challenged the French heavyweight champion, Marcel Nilles to a fight after his bout with Joe Beckett, British havyweight, on June 14.

Far East to Hold Its Own Olympics

TOKYO, March 31.—Rickisha coolies in Japan are all "het up" because it is proposed to bar them from the Far Eastern Olympic meet this year.

Those who want to keep out the 'rickisha pullers urge barring them on the ground that running is their profession, and they have no no business competing in amateur sports.

The sport writers of Japan are sharply divided over the issue. At present the anti-rickisha element seems to have the best of it—but any 'rickisha man in Tokyo will tell you confidently that his gang will win out, and that when the games start May 6 at Osaka he and his fellows will be there, running for all they are worth.

The Far Eastern Olympic meet at Osaka this year will be the largest athletic affair ever staged in the Orient. All the Far East will compete. Osaka is building a $150,000 stadium and, altogether spending about $500,000 in arrangements for the occasion.

Ball Players Demand New Deal

DEMAND CARDS IN GAME OF DIAMOND

Players Insist On Right to Membership On Governing Body of Baseball.

(International News Service.)

CHICAGO, March 31.—An ultimatum demanding that the major league baseball players' union be given representation on the national commission was received at the office of Commissioner K. M. Landis here today. Such representation, it is asserted, "is absolutely necesary in order that the players may be assured that they are being fairly dealt with by the club owners."

Judge Landis, Ban Johnson, president of the American league, and John Heydler, president of the National league, at present constitute the national baseball commission.

Ultimatum to Landis.

The ultimatum was sent from Milwaukee by Ray Cannon, an attorney and formerly a ball player, who organized the ball players' union. The communication was signed by the executive board of the national baseball players' association.

"After you have made laws and regulations binding upon the ball players," the communication sent to Landis, Johnson and Heydler declares, "you have laid down ironclad rules to be enforced against the ball players without the players being given a voice in the creation of the laws governing them.

Players Never Called In.

"You have set the terms of the players' contracts and have passed upon all the vital baseball problems which directly affect the ball players and rendered decisions without the advice and counsel of the players.

"For these reasons the National Baseball Players' association demands a representative be given a seat, a voice and a vote on the national baseball commission and full power to participate in all its business and sessions."

Early Hearing Demanded.

The national commission is requested to give the ball players' demand "early consideration" and advise whether or not the demand will be granted or refused.

Cannon over the long distance telephone today would not say what action would be taken in the event the national commission rejected the demand. He said the executive board would meet as soon as the reply was received.

Landis Touring South.

Judge Landis was not in his office when the communication arrived. He is in Florida, touring the spring training camps. His secretary, Leslie O'Connor, declined to comment.

President Johnson said: "It is my understanding that American league ball players are not interested in this union."

The ultimatum from the union does not mention the American league, but asserts that the "great majority of the players in the National league have become members of the association."

SHOWS HIS HEELS TO SKATING TRIO

Dan O'Leary, Veteran Walker, Victorious In Race at Let's Go Rink.

Dan O'Leary of Chicago, world's champion long distance pedestrain 50 years ago and still a demon walker at 82, showed his heels to a trio of Lincoln roller skaters Friday night in a special race at the Let's Go rink, Twenty-first and W streets.

Under the conditions of the race, Raymond Wright, Roy Potter and Tom Hrdlick were to skate three miles, each covering a third of the distance, while veteran Dan was was walking one mile heel-and--toe style.

It was anybody's race right up to the finish, but Dan was three yards to the good, being timed in 9 minutes and 2 seconds.

Second Race Tonight.

The skaters, miffed at their defeat, immediately challenged Dan to a second race, which will be staged Saturday night at 9 o'clock at the same rink. A purse of $50 will be at stake.

A big crowd saw the race and a number of Lincoln's old-timers, who witnessed Dan in action here nearly 40 years ago, turned out to the Friday contest

The average bozo is satisfied to walk a mile in 15 minutes but Dan O'Leary could walk it in 7 minutes in his prime and at 82 years turns the trick in 9 minutes. Some walking!

Dan will turn his 83d milestone next June and plans to hit the road the day of his anniversary, walking 100 miles in the 24 hours.

(Special to The Star.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 31.—Members of the University of Nebraska track squad took their first workout on California soil Friday afternoon. Coach Henry F. Schulte sent his Cornhusker proteges through a brief workout on the Occidental college oval.

Occidental college athletes worked alongside the Cornhuskers. In some matched contests with the Californians, Nebraska showed up to a good advantage. Noble broke the tape first in the 100-yard dash, Gardner stepped the half-mile in good time and Ted Smith won the 440-yard dash.

Tigers, Sox and Athletics Loom Up As Rivals of Yanks and Browns.

"Have other proposals for July 4," Kearns wired, "but none of them closed."

Collins will leave for St. Paul to sign up Gibbons, and if the Kearns answer is favorable in one week's time, Loy J. Molumby, Montana commander of the American Legion, together with Mike Collins, with Earl Vance as pilot, will leave Great falls by airplane to meet with Kearns wherever he may desire to sign up the final articles.

The Legion has guaranteed $200,000 to Dempsey and $50,000 to Gibbons.

Mike McTigue In Demand.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Mike McTigue, Irish American pugilist, who won the world's light-heavyweight boxing title from Battling Siki at Dublin on St. Patrick's day, will sail for the United States May 1, according to a cablegram received by his manager, Joe Jacobs.

Jacobs also announced that he had received an offer of $100,000 from J. Frank Black, Newark promoter, for a bout between McTigue and Harry Greb in June. Before deciding upon it, however, he said, he would confer with Tex Rickard, who has obtained an option on McTigue and tentatively arranged to match the Irish-American with Georges Carpentier at Boyle's Thirty Acres, also in June.

ANOTHER DEPOT AGENT ROBBED

Holdups Visit Station at Schuyler and Escape With $60 In Cash.

May Be Same Gang Which Staged Rock Island Robbery In Lincoln.

Two men and a woman held up the station agent for the Union Pacific at Schuyler at 10:30 Friday night, escaping with $60 in cash, according to a report received by Captain Frank Ellis of the police department from the sheriff at Schuyler. The trio, according to the report, was traveling in a Chevrolet automobile with a Kansas number.

The woman was described as of light complexion, and wearing a brown coat. One of the men had an automatic revolver, was light haired and wore a heavy grap cap and blue serge suit.

According to Captain Walter Anderson, the description given of the holdups tallies closely with that of the gang which held up the Rock Island depot here several months ago. This is the fifth depot job to be pulled recently, four being reported on Burlington lines. Officials of the Burlington are making an organized effort to stop the activities of the robbers in their territory.

COBB CONFIDES PENNANT HOPES

Ty Thinks Tigers Cream of His League and Expects To Grab Gonfalon.

(International News Service.)

WALLA WALLA, Wash, March 31.—Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, confidently expects to win the pennant in the American league this year.

This was the information received here by Richard Jackson, of San Francisco, former president of the Central league, in a letter from the Georgia Peach, with whom he has maintained a personal friendship for years.

In mentioning reasons the Detroit manager thinks in the first place, he will have a great aggregation this year and he especially mentions three former northwest stars. They are Herman Pillette, former Portland Coast league pitcher; Lew Blue, star Portland Coast league first sacker for several years, and Sylvester Johnson, who got his early training as a twirler for the Franklin high school nine of Portland, Ore. Cobb declares in his letter that Pillette and Johnson are real finds as mound artists, and that Lew Blue is the peer of all the American league first basemen.

Holdout Shortstop To Terms With Sox

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 31.—Ernie Johnson, star shortstop of the Chicago White Sox, has signed his contract and will report to Manager Gleason at Dallas, Tex., Sunday. Johnson, who was a "holdout," yesterday came to an agreement with President Comiskey and left Chicago Saturday morning to join his teammates at their Seguin, Tex., training camp.

Wheat Signs With Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Zack Wheat, veteran outfielder-captain of the Brooklyn Robins, has signed his contract for 1923 and today rejoined his men in New Orleans.

Jimmy O'Connell, the $75,000 player purchased from San Francisco, will share the New York Giants' center field with Bill Cunningham, Manager McGraw announced before the team left San Antonio for its northern trip. O'Connell, a southpaw batter, will be used against right-handed flingers.

Carp Seeks Whirl At French Heavy

PARIS, March 31.—Georges Carpentier, formerly light-heavy weight champion of Europe, today challenged the French heavyweight champion, Marcel Nilles to a fight after his bout with Joe Beckett, British havyweight, on June 14.

Far East to Hold Its Own Olympics

TOKYO, March 31.—Rickisha coolies in Japan are all "het up" because it is proposed to bar them from the Far Eastern Olympic meet this year.

Those who want to keep out the 'rickisha pullers urge barring them on the ground that running is their profession, and they have no no business competing in amateur sports.

The sport writers of Japan are sharply divided over the issue. At present the anti-rickisha element seems to have the best of it—but any 'rickisha man in Tokyo will tell you confidently that his gang will win out, and that when the games start May 6 at Osaka he and his fellows will be there, running for all they are worth.

The Far Eastern Olympic meet at Osaka this year will be the largest athletic affair ever staged in the Orient. All the Far East will compete. Osaka is building a $150,000 stadium and, altogether spending about $500,000 in arrangements for the occasion.

THE LEAGUE AGAIN

Each day seems to justify the belief that when the 1924 presidential campaign rolls around, it will see an entriely different lineup on the league of nations issue than confronted the voters in 1920.

Hamilton Holt, who has consistently been an out-and-out leaguer, and Dr. Henry A. Atkinson, have returned from a trip which took them into California, Colorado, Utah and Wyoming, and during which they delivered thirty-six speeches in favor of American participation in the world court of international justice. But if one is to interpret an interview which they gave out upon their return to New York City, American participation as proposed by President Harding is but a stepping stone to complete participation in the league.

Dr. Atkinson makes so bold as to state that President Harding's move is regarded "as a forerunner of more general popular interest in the other activities of the league."

He also provides an insight into the unexpected and unusual change in front, of Senator William Borah, of Idaho. In brief, Dr. Atkinson says that Senator Borah has been hearing from the people at home.

"Owing to the unsettled condition of European affairs," Dr. Atkinson said, "the Idaho farmers can find no foreign market for their potatoes. One man told me he has 7,000 bags of potatoes in storage which he cannot sell at a price that would pay for the cost of handling. The western farmers are beginning to appreciate that their prosperity depends upon opening the markets of Europe, and they are ready to accept the league or any other international arrangement that would stabilize foreign conditions and improve foreign trade."

Putting it rather bluntly and in an entirely different way, Dr. Atkinson would have us believe that economic necessities have forced the farmer of the middle west to accept the league, when a just recognition of world responsibility and the fine idealism for which America has been noted, failed dismally in the hour of greatest need. It may not be welcome to hundreds of us who like to think that we have always fulfilled our obligations, either idealistic or material, but there is a lot of truth in it. It was the pinch of the pocketbook that jerked America to her senses, and made her understand that the splendid isolation, preached by so many long-haired statesmen of the Hiram Johnson type, was a hollow mockery. It was the failing markets, and the sagging prices of everything which America produced, which again aroused the people from a feeling of self-sufficiency.

There is another phase of it, however, with which America must be deeply concerned. Germany is tottering; British gambles have cost Johnny Bull frightfully, and France has been steadily piling up obligations, of which even the most courageous shiver to think. Perhaps, we have waited too long. Journalists from abroad believe American participation must come within the next year, if Europe is to be saved from herself. And it would be well for the people of America to realize that when mention is made of "saving Europe" it bears a most important relationship to America. Should France, Germany or Britain fall, America will feel the shock terribly.

Regardless of political considerations, one can most ardently hope that President Harding is successful in his proposal for American participation in the world court. It should be recognized now that American participation in the world court means nothing more or less than a complete recognition of the league of nations, and as Dr. Atkinson puts it, "more general popular interest in the other activities of the league." The only regret is that political considerations, and previous campaign utterances, make it impossible for President Harding to tear the mask aside and come out flatfootedly for league membership.

A MARTYR OF THE PRESS.

Peter Vischer, reporter for the New York World and one of the many reporters assigned to cover the "murder mystery of a generation," known commonly as the Hall-Mills case, has recently made public some interesting facts and observations in The Quill, magazine published by the Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity, of which he is the first national vice-president. Supplemented with the statement that the eighty reporters and feature writers who spent all or a part of three months there, drew a total in pay of more than $100,000, while working on the case, Mr. Vischer proceeds to criticise a system which he declares condemned a woman and almost convicted her in the public's mind without just reason or cause. "I was astounded,' he begins, "at the ease with which the great power of the press—that forceful and righteous determination of news papers to present the truth—was insolently mocked."

He reviews the case in brief and interesting form. "A rector, married to a lady of high breeding and considerable wealth, was found murdered under a crab-apple tree on the outskirts of town, side by side with the church's choir leader. One bullet did for him, but she had been shot thrice and her throat viciously slashed. His body bore signs of having been carefully laid out, even his eyeglasses set neatly on his nose; she had been handled less gently, judging from the disorder of her clothes. Torn love letters of their clandestine romance lay strewn between them."

Reporters reaching the scene of the strange crime immediately began the search for a motive. Their natural suspicions were aroused against the minister's wife and these were augmented by the silence she maintaind and the seclusion she sought. These suspicions were telegraphed, made up a goodly portion of the one million words wired from the scene of the tragedy in fact, and the suspicion of motive hunting reporters was broadcasted to a waiting world. Reporters, Mr. Vischer suggests, were after news and consequently they went to the limit in sending every word about the case that could be gleaned from any source, hazy-visioned detectives, notoriety-seeking "eye-witnesses" and others who knew little but talked much of the case. The result was that most of the reputable newspapers in the east virtually accused the rector's wife of the murder, a charge which later proved so unfounded and so flimsy that the grand jury refused to even consider an indictment.

Some of the possibilities overlooked by the reporters in telling the world of the strange crime are mentioned by Mr. Vischer.

"Robbery was dismissed, although the rector's watch chain and money were missing. Blackmail was hardly given a thought. That three and perhaps more women verily worshiped the rotund little rector was considered insignificant. That New Brunswick had speak-easies, gambling dens, disorderly houses and the like, with a considerable population of thugs and their friends—black and white, American and foreign—was not considered. That the Ku Klux Klan or some similar outfit might have been out to do a little social correcting was laughed at. That the crime may not have been motivated at all was held to be out of the question."

The newspapers made the woman a martyr to sensationalism, largely because their reporters and feature writers allowed themselves to be carried away by their own suspicions and deductions. Some protection is needed, this New York reporter believes, to protect innocent people from suspicious reporters who telegraph their suspicions as facts under the excitement or a crime that has assumed national interest.

In the case of the Hall-Mills murder the eighty reporters and the army of police and detectives were equally unable to solve the riddle and the case has gone into history as one of the great murder mysteries of the eastern states.

The government weather bureau betrays unusual annoyance over recently widely broadcasted statements that at last a successful method to produce rain has been uncovered. The weather bureau is giving the reports more serious consideration than anyone else. The bureau's deductions are interesting. "To produce one inch of rainfall over an area of an acre, approximately 113 tons of moisture would have to be drawn up into the air and then precipitated. There are 640 acres in a square mile for which 72,320 tons of moisture would be required. Enormous forces are required in nature to elevate moisture above the earth before it can be precipitated. Billions of horsepower are represented in the cloud that spread over the house-tops; and even if some artificial means were found to cause the aggregation to fall as rain of the infinitesimal drops of which itis made up, calculation shows that only a trifling amount of precipitation would result. "We are forced to the conclusion that this is a job for Henry Ford, after he has finished with Muscle Shoals.

GERING INDICTED UNDER AN OLD ACT

Government to Attempt to Confiscate Big Pharmaceutical Plant.

OMAHA, March 31.—Indictments based on the old internal revenue laws of preprohibition days were returned against Henry R. Gering, head of the manufacturing pharmacists' company at 1114 Farnam streets, which bears his name, and a number of other alleged liquor law violators by the federal grand jury Friday.

Under one section of the three indictments against Gering, the government, according to George Keyser, assistant district attorney, will try to confiscate Gering's plant. Rudolph Gerber and L. B. Hansen, who the government charges were employes of Gering, also were named in the Gering indictments.

The liquor indictments, described by Keyser as ones with "teeth" in them were the first of their type ever returned here and, so far as is known, the first ever returned in the country since the advent of prohibition. The laws were enacted for the prosecution of Kentucky and Tennessee mountaineer moonshiners in pre-prohibition days. In most of the counts, fines of from $500 to $5,000 and jail sentences are provided in case where convictions are obtained.

They differ from the Volstead penalties in that in convictions under the Volstead act the fines and jail sentences are optional with the court and may be applied separately, but under the old revenue laws, both must be imposed.

Boost Taylor to Fill Seat Held By Senator Nicholson

WASHINGTON, March 31—Congregational friends of Representative Edward T. Taylor, democrat of Colorado, today telegraphed Governor Sweet, asking the appointment of Taylor to the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Samuel D. Nicholson, republican.

The appointment of former Senator Charles Thomas, of Colorado, has been suggested to Governor Sweet in messages sent by the many of his friends here. The selection of Thomas is doubtful because he has not been in political harmony with Governor Sweet.

Wilson Asserts Was Misquoted

Representative E. P. Wilson of Dawes county arose to a question of personal privilege in the house Friday afternoon and protested against a newspaper article which quoted him as having used a profane word of four letters in debate the previous day. Mr. Wilson denied having employed such an expression. The reporter who heard his talk and quoted it evidently misunderstood his words. Friends of the member from Dawes say that he never indulges in such language. He is a college professor in the Chadron state normal school.

The Nebraska Press

Trees For Utility and Beauty.

(Kearney Hub.)

While perhaps little thought has been given to the matter in the newspapers relating to tree planting and reforesting, it is nevertheless true that the movement in that direction is stronger than at any previous time in the country's history and is receiving its inspiration from practically a multitude of sources. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace recently addressed a message to the people stressing the need of immediate and continuous effort throughout the country. The forestry bureau of the government is doing educational work in various states and tree planting associations are active in many localities.

Hence the timeliness and importance of the movement that has just inaugurated by Gene Loomis, county superintendent of schools, to enlist the co-operation of school officers, patrons, teachers and pupils, in the work of beautifying the premises of the country public school, for the development of "The School Yard Beautiful," to use the language of Mr. Loomis. In a circular letter recently addressed to school officials and teachers Superintendent Loomis asked that meetings be held in the school houses of the county on March 21, to make a start in adding beauty and comfort to public school grounds. Possibly the start will not be extensive but any modest start is really a good beginning, and we do not doubt that the response will be in every way gratifying to our public spirited superintendent of schools.

At least four civic organizations in Kearney have given Superintendent Loomis a pledge to furnish prizes to be offered to districts for greatest number of trees alive after one year's planting, for most beautiful and best arranged scheme of trees and shrubbery, beds of flowers, etc., the purpose being to stimulate rivalry in addition to the element of personal interest.

It is less than thirty-five years since H. D. Watson planted the double row of young elm trees west of this city. Now this mile of highway is one of the most beautiful boulevards in the west, with cement roadway and paved approaches connecting with the city's paving system. This object lesson has not been lost on the people of Kearney, even though they may have been careless in the matter of tree preservation, for they are now completing a project for a mile or more of elm-lined highway leading from the central part of the city to the Kearney cemetery, this work having been started in a small way last season. It is predicted that an extended scheme of co-operation including the entire county will spread rapidly and in a few years become knit firmly together so that the entire county will represent a diversified parking panorama.

The plan for working by school districts is the plainest kind of sense because it appeals to every element of local interest and is just as applicable in one county as another, so that it may not be a wild dream to picture the spread of the Buffalo county plan throughout the state and into every school district.

Time Well Spent.

(New York Times.)

A newspaper writer, not having anything else to write about, expressed the opinion that there was too much time wasted in saying "thank you" in business transactions and he advocated doing away with this courtesy.

The time spent in saying "thank you" is time well invested. The business man and his assistants who are courteous are the ones who get and hold trade. It does not take long to say "thank you" and it often results in real appreciation from the person thanked.

More politeness in all business transactions would make business more pleasant and eventually lead to the elimination of rudeness. In some parts of the country the rudeness of business men toward strangers is something fierce. It is a wonder these alleged business men can gt any patronage at all. It does not take long to say "please" and "thank you" and it pays well. The newspaper writer, who would do away with these courtesies is either writing to fill space or is off of his base of reasoning.

DODD SPEAKS ON FARMERS' PLIGHT

Points Out Danger In Present Conditions in Talk at Capitol Friday.

Unless immediate and drastic action is taken, there is grave danger of the American farmer losing his independent spirit, assuming the "don't care" attitude, and dropping into a class similar to that of the European peasant, Prof. William E. Dodd declared, in the course of an address delivered in representative hall Friday night on "The Declining Fortunes of the American Farmer."

Prof. Dodd reviewed the history of the United States from the time it was founded as a farmers' democracy, with the agricultural element leaders in governmental affairs and finances, to the present day, when farmers are facing almost unbearable conditions.

"During the various wars this group has temporarily come to the front, when a ready market is created, but always reverts to its former status, or lower, when hostilities ceased and the bottom falls out of the market he said. The world was no exception to this rule.

Prof. Dodd declared that the greatest problem in the country today is to find a satisfactory solution for the underlying causes of the farmers' discontent. He suggested that city people more generally react to their own best interests and aid in creating an equitable market for farm produce.

The one outstanding boost the agricultural group has received was the homestead act, the speaker asserted, and urged that the closest study be given to improving the condition of the farmers, as a patriotic and economic necessity, both by legislative action and otherwise.

Baldwin No Longer In State's Employ

Representative C. W. Orr, introducer of the bill to abolish the blue sky bureau, has learned that H. C. Baldwin, formerly an examiner in its employ, severed his connection with it several months ago, and that he is not one of those who were delinquent in failing to renew their bonds as required by law, when the old surety instruments expired in January.

Mr. Orr's statement given out a few days ago was based on the payroll of the bureau, but in Mr. Baldwin's case he was in error. Another examiner, J. L. Kizer, was the one who should have been included in place of Baldwin, but was erroneously omitted, says Mr. Orr.

The Eternal Eve

(Copyright, 1923, by May Christie.)

BY MAE CHRISTIE

Strange little trees and undergrowth that Eve had never seen before drooped over quiet pools—and suddenly they came upon a group of little painted shacks, shaded to every color of the rainbow, from vivid orange to the palest mauve!

"How queer;" cried Eve. "Do people really live in these dear little dolls' houses?"

"Indeed they do—large families of them!" Wilfred smiled at her surprise. "Loads of little Topsys, black as coal—and Rastuses"—

They glided over the wide, white roads, past country villages and through small towns.

Eve watched his profile as, with hands on the wheel, he stared ahead at the long, white ribbon of road that lay before them, and which the automobile swallowed up so easily:

How attractive he was! How strong—and stern!

This was the last day they would ever spend together—but she mustn't think of that!

She slipped a hand under the collar of her big fur coat, and touched her string of pearls. How beautiful they were! But after today they would be no longer hers—she would give them back to Wilfred!

He didn't speak to her again until they reached a queer little country village, composed of straggling wooden buildings built on piles. The roads were very bad here, embedded with deep ruts.

He drew up at the "hitching post" before the village inn, and quickly got out of the car. Eve was about to follow him when he stopped her.

"Just sit in the car for a moment while I go inside and see if lunch is ready!" There was a queer, suppressed eagerness in Wilfred's voice. "I won't be long!"

He darted up the wooden steps to the front porch of the place, opened the door and disappeared.

Five minutes later he emerged—and he was smiling. He climbed into the car.

"It will be ready in fifteen minutes—we'll be back in plenty of time!"

They spun down the main street till they reached a wooden bungalow bearing a painted sign:

OFFICE OF THE SHERIFF.

Here Wilfred stopped the car and helped Eve to descend. He handed her the flowers he had brought, and wonderingly she took them. He led her up to the front door, hammered at the knocker, and the door was opened by a sparse, elderly individual with thin gray hair and a straggly goatee beard—the sheriff himself.

"I got your telegram." He peered at Wilfred over the top of his rubber-rimmed glasses. And then he turned to Eve. "So this is the young lady, is it?" His long upper lip parted from the goatee beard in a welcoming smile.

He flung the door wide open.

"Come right in, both of you! I'm tickled to death to be of use!"

He led the way into a bare little room and called up the stairs:

"Hi Sadie! Come right down—you're wanted!"

A buxom young woman descended. "My daughter." The man presented her with a flourish of his hand. "Say, Sadie, this young couple's going to get married."

Eve turned to Wilfred, wide-eyed with astonishment.

"What does he say? What is it? What does he mean?" She drew a pace back towards the door

"Hold on a minute! It's all right, Eve! Just do what I tell you!" The old masterful note had returned to Wilfred's voice. He caught Eve by the arm and drew her forward.

"Take the young lady by the hand and stand right square in front of me—so!" The old man adjusted his glasses on his bony nose and beamed at both of them.

Eve stood like one in a dream. Vaguely she realized that Wilfred held her hand, and that he was standing close to her.

"Do you take this woman for your lawful wedded wife?" She heard the Sheriff's nasal voice proclaim the question.

"I do," said Wilfred, very clearly.

The rest of the simple little ceremony seemed a blrred confusion. Eve recollected vaguely questions were put to her, and Wilfred's tones in her ear, prompting her replies.

And then a ring was slipped upon the third finger of her left hand, she signed her name beside that of Wilfred—twice: the Sheriff and the witness—Sadie—shook her warmly by the hand, and Wilfred had his arm around her, leading her out to the waiting car.

In a few moments they were back again at the village inn, in the stiff "front-parlor" of the hostelry, awaiting lunch.

"Oh, Wilfred, why—why did you do it?" stammered Eve at last, as though waking from some spel. "I hadn't any idea"—She stared at the gold band on her finger.

"Of course you hadn't!" He was beaming down on her. "But it was the only thing that I could do! I got so tired of our little misunderstandings—and then, when you refused Van Buren, I guessed I was the only man who could make you really happy!"

He lifted her left hand, and regarded the ring with reverence.

"Sweetheart," he added, "I just had to run away with you!"

"But—what will Mary say—and John?"

Wilfred flung back his head and laughed.

"John will envy me! The only decent thing about the chap was that he had the good taste—and the presumption—to care for you!"

Wilfred drew Eve over to a big wood fire that was crackling cheerily in an open fireplace, made her slip her heavy coat off and sit down in a horsehair rocking chair.

Then he stood a few paces away from her, and regared her steadily, possessively.

"My wife is the prettiest girl I've ever seen!" His dark eyes shone with happiness. "Oh, Eve, my dear, to think I almost lost you!"

The firelight glimmered on the pearls she wore around her neck.

"You can't have any scruples about keeping them now!"

The motherly landlady popped her head into the room.

"Lunch will be served in about three minutes, sir! There's a phonograph in the corner, with some records—put them on if you'd like to amuse the young lady!" She withdrew.

Wilfred crossed the room and began fumbling with the instrument, while Eve stared mistily at the leaping flames.

And then a sound rang out which brought the quick tears to her eyes—the Hawaiian love song that had brought them both together.

Eve rose unsteadily to her feet and looked across the room toward Wilfred.

In two strides he was beside her, holding her in his arms and looking deep into her eyes.

"You hear it, sweetheart? It's 'Aloha Oe.'" He bent his head and kissed her fondly, tenderly. "My Dearest Love to You," he added, "always and for ever, until death do us part!"

THE END.

THE LEAGUE AGAIN

Each day seems to justify the belief that when the 1924 presidential campaign rolls around, it will see an entriely different lineup on the league of nations issue than confronted the voters in 1920.

Hamilton Holt, who has consistently been an out-and-out leaguer, and Dr. Henry A. Atkinson, have returned from a trip which took them into California, Colorado, Utah and Wyoming, and during which they delivered thirty-six speeches in favor of American participation in the world court of international justice. But if one is to interpret an interview which they gave out upon their return to New York City, American participation as proposed by President Harding is but a stepping stone to complete participation in the league.

Dr. Atkinson makes so bold as to state that President Harding's move is regarded "as a forerunner of more general popular interest in the other activities of the league."

He also provides an insight into the unexpected and unusual change in front, of Senator William Borah, of Idaho. In brief, Dr. Atkinson says that Senator Borah has been hearing from the people at home.

"Owing to the unsettled condition of European affairs," Dr. Atkinson said, "the Idaho farmers can find no foreign market for their potatoes. One man told me he has 7,000 bags of potatoes in storage which he cannot sell at a price that would pay for the cost of handling. The western farmers are beginning to appreciate that their prosperity depends upon opening the markets of Europe, and they are ready to accept the league or any other international arrangement that would stabilize foreign conditions and improve foreign trade."

Putting it rather bluntly and in an entirely different way, Dr. Atkinson would have us believe that economic necessities have forced the farmer of the middle west to accept the league, when a just recognition of world responsibility and the fine idealism for which America has been noted, failed dismally in the hour of greatest need. It may not be welcome to hundreds of us who like to think that we have always fulfilled our obligations, either idealistic or material, but there is a lot of truth in it. It was the pinch of the pocketbook that jerked America to her senses, and made her understand that the splendid isolation, preached by so many long-haired statesmen of the Hiram Johnson type, was a hollow mockery. It was the failing markets, and the sagging prices of everything which America produced, which again aroused the people from a feeling of self-sufficiency.

There is another phase of it, however, with which America must be deeply concerned. Germany is tottering; British gambles have cost Johnny Bull frightfully, and France has been steadily piling up obligations, of which even the most courageous shiver to think. Perhaps, we have waited too long. Journalists from abroad believe American participation must come within the next year, if Europe is to be saved from herself. And it would be well for the people of America to realize that when mention is made of "saving Europe" it bears a most important relationship to America. Should France, Germany or Britain fall, America will feel the shock terribly.

Regardless of political considerations, one can most ardently hope that President Harding is successful in his proposal for American participation in the world court. It should be recognized now that American participation in the world court means nothing more or less than a complete recognition of the league of nations, and as Dr. Atkinson puts it, "more general popular interest in the other activities of the league." The only regret is that political considerations, and previous campaign utterances, make it impossible for President Harding to tear the mask aside and come out flat-footedly for league membership.

A MARTYR OF THE PRESS.

Peter Vischer, reporter for the New York World and one of the many reporters assigned to cover the "murder mystery of a generation," known commonly as the Hall-Mills case, has recently made public some interesting facts and observations in The Quill, magazine published by the Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity, of which he is the first national vice-president. Supplemented with the statement that the eighty reporters and feature writers who spent all or a part of three months there, drew a total in pay of more than $100,000, while working on the case. Mr. Vischer proceeds to criticise a system which he declares condemned a woman and almost convicted her in the public's mind without just reason or cause. "I was astounded,' he begins, "at the ease with which the great power of the press—that forceful and righteous determination of news papers to present the truth—was insolently mocked."

He reviews the case in brief and interesting form. "A rector, married to a lady of high breeding and considerable wealth, was found murdered under a crab-apple tree on the outskirts of town, side by side with the church's choir leader. One bullet did for him, but she had been shot thrice and her throat viciously slashed. His body bore signs of having been carefully laid out, even his eyeglasses set neatly on his nose; she had been handled less gently, judging from the disorder of her clothes. Torn love letters of their clandestine romance lay strewn between them."

Reporters reaching the scene of the strange crime immediately began the search for a motive. Their natural suspicions were aroused against the minister's wife and these were augmented by the silence she maintaind and the seclusion she sought. These suspicions were telegraphed, made up a goodly portion of the one million words wired from the scene of the tragedy in fact, and the suspicion of motive hunting reporters was broadcasted to a waiting world. Reporters, Mr. Vischer suggests, were after news and consequently they went to the limit in sending every word about the case that could be gleaned from any source, hazy-visioned detectives, notoriety-seeking "eye-witnesses" and others who knew little but talked much of the case. The result was that most of the reputable newspapers in the east virtually accused the rector's wife of the murder, a charge which later proved so unfounded and so flimsy that the grand jury refused to even consider an indictment.

Some of the possibilities overlooked by the reporters in telling the world of the strange crime are mentioned by Mr. Vischer.

"Robbery was dismissed, although the rector's watch chain and money were missing. Blackmail was hardly given a thought. That three and perhaps more women verily worshiped the rotund little rector was considered insignificant. That New Brunswick had speak-easies, gambling dens, disorderly houses and the like, with a considerable population of thugs and their friends—black and white, American and foreign—was not considered. That the Ku Klux Klan or some similar outfit might have been out to do a little social correcting was laughed at. That the crime may not have been motivated at all was held to be out of the question."

The newspapers made the woman a martyr to sensationalism, largely because their reporters and feature writers allowed themselves to be carried away by their own suspicions and deductions. Some protection is needed, this New York reporter believes, to protect innocent people from suspicious reporters who telegraph their suspicions as facts under the excitement or a crime that has assumed national interest.

In the case of the Hall-Mills murder the eighty reporters and the army of police and detectives were equally unable to solve the riddle and the case has gone into history as one of the great murder mysteries of the eastern states.

The government weather bureau betrays unusual annoyance over recently widely broadcasted statements that at last a successful method to produce rain has been uncovered. The weather bureau is giving the reports more serious consideration than anyone else. The bureau's deductions are interesting. "To produce one inch of rainfall over an area of an acre, approximately 113 tons of moisture would have to be drawn up into the air and then precipitated. There are 640 acres in a square mile for which 72,320 tons of moisture would be required. Enormous forces are required in nature to elevate moisture above the earth before it can be precipitated. Billions of horsepower are represented in the cloud that spread over the house-tops; and even if some artificial means were found to cause the aggregation to fall as rain of the infinitesimal drops of which itis made up, calculation shows that only a trifling amount of precipitation would result. "We are forced to the conclusion that this is a job for Henry Ford, after he has finished with Muscle Shoals.

When bootleggers cheat rum runners how can an honest man expect to have any chance in this wicked world?

GERING INDICTED UNDER AN OLD ACT

Government to Attempt to Confiscate Big Pharmaceutical Plant.

OMAHA, March 31.—Indictments based on the old internal revenue laws of preprohibition days were returned against Henry R. Gering, head of the manufacturing pharmacists' company at 1114 Farnam streets, which bears his name, and a number of other alleged liquor law violators by the federal grand jury Friday.

Under one section of the three indictments against Gering, the government, according to George Keyser, assistant district attorney, will try to confiscate Gering's plant. Rudolph Gerber and L. B. Hansen, who the government charges were employes of Gering, also were named in the Gering indictments.

The liquor indictments, described by Keyser as ones with "teeth" in them were the first of their type ever returned here and, so far as is known, the first ever returned in the country since the advent of prohibition. The laws were enacted for the prosecution of Kentucky and Tennessee mountaineer moonshiners in the pre-prohibition days. In most of the counts, fines of from $500 to $5,000 and jail sentences are provided in case where convictions are obtained.

They differ from the Volstead penalties in that in convictions under the Volstead act the fines and jail sentences are optional with the court and may be applied separately, but under the old revenue laws, both must be imposed.

Boost Taylor to Fill Seat Held By Senator Nicholson

The appointment of former Senator Charles Thomas, of Colorado, has been suggested to Governor Sweet in messages sent by the many of his friends here. The selection of Thomas is doubtful because he has not been in political harmony with Governor Sweet.

Wilson Asserts Was Misquoted

Representative E. P. Wilson of Dawes county arose to a question of personal privilege in the house Friday afternoon and protested against a newspaper article which quoted him as having used a profane word of four letters in debate the previous day. Mr. Wilson denied having employed such an expression. The reporter who heard his talk and quoted it evidently misunderstood his words. Friends of the member from Dawes say that he never indulges in such language. He is a college professor in the Chadron state normal school.

Trees For Utility and Beauty.

(Kearney Hub.)

While perhaps little thought has been given to the matter in the newspapers relating to tree planting and reforesting, it is nevertheless true that the movement in that direction is stronger than at any previous time in the country's history and is receiving its inspiration from practically a multitude of sources. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace recently addressed a message to the people stressing the need of immediate and continuous effort throughout the country. The forestry bureau of the government is doing educational work in various states and tree planting associations are active in many localities.

Hence the timeliness and importance of the movement that has just inaugurated by Gene Loomis, county superintendent of schools, to enlist the co-operation of school officers, patrons, teachers and pupils, in the work of beautifying the premises of the country public school, for the development of "The School Yard Beautiful," to use the language of Mr. Loomis. In a circular letter recently addressed to school officials and teachers Superintendent Loomis asked that meetings be held in the school houses of the county on March 21, to make a start in adding beauty and comfort to public school grounds. Possibly the start will not be extensive but any modest start is really a good beginning, and we do not doubt that the response will be in every way gratifying to our public spirited superintendent of schools.

At least four civic organizations in Kearney have given Superintendent Loomis a pledge to furnish prizes to be offered to districts for greatest number of trees alive after one year's planting, for most beautiful and best arranged scheme of trees and shrubbery, beds of flowers, etc., the purpose being to stimulate rivalry in addition to the element of personal interest.

It is less than thirty-five years since H. D. Watson planted the double row of young elm trees west of this city. Now this mile of highway is one of the most beautiful boulevards in the west, with cement roadway and paved approaches connecting with the city's paving system. This object lesson has not been lost on the people of Kearney, even though they may have been careless in the matter of tree preservation, for they are now completing a project for a mile or more of elm-lined highway leading from the central part of the city to the Kearney cemetery, this work having been started in a small way last season. It is predicted that an extended scheme of co-operation including the entire county will spread rapidly and in a few years become knit firmly together so that the entire county will represent a diversified parking panorama.

The plan for working by school districts is the plainest kind of sense because it appeals to every element of local interest and is just as applicable in one county as another, so that it may not be a wild dream to picture the spread of the Buffalo county plan throughout the state and into every school district.

Time Well Spent.

(New York Times.)

A newspaper writer, not having anything else to write about, expressed the opinion that there was too much time wasted in saying "thank you" in business transactions and he advocated doing away with this courtesy.

The time spent in saying "thank you" is time well invested. The business man and his assistants who are courteous are the ones who get and hold trade. It does not take long to say "thank you" and it often results in real appreciation from the person thanked.

More politeness in all business transactions would make business more pleasant and eventually lead to the elimination of rudeness. In some parts of the country the rudeness of business men toward strangers is something fierce. It is' a wonder these alleged business men can gt any patronage at all. It does not take long to say "please" and "thank you" and it pays well. The newspaper writer who would do away with these courtesies is either writing to fill space or is off of his base of reasoning.

DODD SPEAKS ON FARMERS' PLIGHT

Points Out Danger In Present Conditions in Talk at Capitol Friday.

Unless immediate and drastic action is taken, there is grave danger of the American farmer losing his independent spirit, assuming the "don't care" attitude, and dropping into a class similar to that of the European peasant, Prof. William E. Dodd declared, in the course of an address delivered in representative hall Friday night on "The Declining Fortunes of the American Farmer."

Prof. Dodd reviewed the history of the United States from the time it was founded as a farmers' democracy, with the agricultural element leaders in governmental affairs and finances, to the present day, when farmers are facing almost unbearable conditions.

During the various wars this group has temporarily come to the front, when a ready market is created, but always reverts to its former status, or lower, when hostilities ceased and the bottom falls out of the market he said. The world was no exception to this rule.

Prof. Dodd declared that the greatest problem in the country today is to find a satisfactory solution for the underlying causes of the farmers' discontent. He suggested that city people more generally react to their own best interests and aid in creating an equitable market for farm produce.

The one outstanding boost the agricultural group has received was the homestead act, the speaker asserted, and urged that the closest study be given to improving the condition of the farmers, as a patriotic and economic necessity, both by legislative action and otherwise.

Baldwin No Longer In State's Employ

Representative C. W. Orr, introducer of the bill to abolish the blue sky bureau, has learned that H. C. Baldwin, formerly an examiner in its employ, severed his connection with it several months ago, and that he is not one of those who were delinquent in failing to renew their bonds, as required by law, when the old surety instruments expired in January.

Mr. Orr's statement given out a few days ago was based on the payroll of the bureau, but in Mr. Baldwin's case he was in error. Another examiner, J. L. Kizer, was the one who should have been included in place of Baldwin, but was erroneously omitted, says Mr. Orr.

The Eternal Eve

(Copyright, 1923, by May Christie.)

BY MAE CHRISTIE

Strange little trees and undergrowth that Eve had never seen before drooped over quiet pools—and suddenly they came upon a group of little painted shacks, shaded to every color of the rainbow, from vivid orange to the palest mauve!

"How queer;" cried Eve. "Do people really live in these dear little dolls' houses?"

"Indeed they do—large families of them!" Wilfred smiled at her surprise. "Loads of little Topsys, black as coal—and Rastuses"—

They glided over the wide, white roads, past country villages and through small towns.

Eve watched his profile as, with hands on the wheel, he stared ahead at the long, white ribbon of road that lay before them, and which the automobile swallowed up so easily!

How attractive he was! How strong—and stern!

This was the last day they would ever spend together—but she mustn't think of that!

She slipped a hand under the collar of her big fur coat, and touched her string of pearls. How beautiful they were! But after today they would be no longer hers—she would give them back to Wilfred!

He didn't speak to her again until they reached a queer little country village, composed of straggling wooden buildings built on piles. The roads were very bad here, embedded with deep ruts.

He drew up at the "hitching post" before the village inn, and quickly got out of the car. Eve was about to follow him when he stopped her.

"Just sit in the car for a moment while I go inside and see if lunch is ready!" There was a queer, suppressed eagerness in Wilfred's voice. "I won't be long!"

He darted up the wooden steps to the front porch of the place, opened the door and disappeared.

Five minutes later he emerged—and he was smiling. He climbed into the car.

"It will be ready in fifteen minutes—we'll be back in plenty of time!"

They spun down the main street till they reached a wooden bungalow bearing a painted sign:

OFFICE OF THE SHERIFF.

Here Wilfred stopped the car and helped Eve to descend. He handed her the flowers he had brought, and wonderingly she took them. He led her up to the front door, hammered at the knocker, and the door was opened by a sparse, elderly individual with thin gray hair and a straggly goatee beard—the sheriff himself.

"I got your telegram." He peered at Wilfred over the top of his hubber-rimmed glasses. And then he turned to Eve. "So this is the young lady, is it?" His long upper lip parted from the goatee beard in a welcoming smile.

He flung the door wide open.

"Come right in, both of you! I'm tickled to death to be of use!"

He led the way into a bare little room and called up the stairs:

"Hi Sadie! Come right down—you're wanted!"

A buxom young woman descended.

"My daughter." The man presented her with a flourish of his hand. "Say, Sadie, this young couple's going to get married."

Eve turned to Wilfred, wide-eyed with astonishment.

"What does he say? What is it? What does he mean?" She drew a pace back towards the door.

"Hold on a minute! It's all right, Eve! Just do what I tell you!" The old masterful note had returned to Wilfred's voice. He caught Eve by the arm and drew her forward.

"Take the young lady by the hand and stand right square in front of me—so!" The old man adjusted his glasses on his bony nose and beamed at both of them.

Eve stood like one in a dream. Vaguely she realized that Wilfred held her hand, and that he was standing close to her.

"Do you take this woman for your lawful wedded wife?" She heard the Sheriff's nasal voice proclaim the question.

"I do," said Wilfred, very clearly.

The rest of the simple little ceremony seemed a birred confusion. Eve recollected vaguely questions were put to her, and Wilfred's tones in her ear, prompting her replies.

And then a ring was slipped upon the third finger of her left hand, she signed her name beside that of Wilfred—twice; the Sheriff and the witness—Sadie—shook her warmly by the hand, and Wilfred had his arm around her, leading her out to the waiting car.

In a few moments they were back again at the village inn, in the stiff "front-parlor" of the hostelry, awaiting lunch.

"Oh, Wilfred, why—why did you do it?" stammered Eve at last, as though waking from some spel. "I hadn't any idea"—She stared at the gold band on her finger.

"Of course you hadn't!" He was beaming down on her. "But it was the only thing that I could do! I got so tired of our little misunderstandings—and then, when you refused Van Buren, I guessed I was the only man who could make you really happy!"

He lifted her left hand, and regarded the ring with reverence.

"Sweetheart," he added, "I just had to run away with you!"

"But—what will Mary say—and John?"

Wilfred flung back his head and laughed.

"John will envy me! The only decent thing about the chap was that he had the good taste—and the presumption—to care for you!"

Wilfred drew Eve over to a big wood fire that was crackling cheerily in an open fireplace, made her slip her heavy coat off and sit down in a horsehair rocking chair.

Then he stood a few paces away from her, and regared her steadily, possessively.

"My wife is the prettiest girl I've ever seen!" His dark eles shone with happiness. "Oh, Eve, my dear, to think I almost lost you!"

The firelight glimmered on the pearls she wore around her neck.

"You can't have any scruples about keeping them now!"

The motherly landlady popped her head into the room.

"Lunch will be served in about three minutes, sir! There's a phonograph in the corner, with some records—put them on if you'd like to amuse the young lady!" She withdrew.

Wilfred crossed the room and began fumbling with the instrument, while Eve stared mistily at the leaping flames.

And then a sound rang out which brought the quick tears to her eyes—the Hawaiian love song that had brought them both together.

Eve rose unsteadily to her feet and looked across the room toward Wilfred.

In two strides he was beside her, holding her in his arms and looking deep into her eyes.

"You hear it, sweetheart? It's 'Aloha Oe.'" He bent his head and kissed her fondly, tenderly. "My Dearest Love to You," he added, "always and for ever, until death do us part!"

THE END.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 31.

Stock prices moved in rather aimless and irregular fashion in today's market. Few of the leaders fluctuated sufficiently either way to furnish a definite indication of speculative operations. With most of the large operators away for the Easter holidays, the price movements were largely in the hands of floor traders. Heaviness of Pacific Oil and several of the independent steel shares were counter balanced by advances in the food group and a few minor specialties. Willys-Overland preferred was pushed up 4½ points and Beechnut and Century Ribbon each advanced 2. Marland Oil also rose over 2 points to a new high for the year. Selling in the Virginia-Carolina Chemical issues forced the preferred down nearly 3 points. Adams Express and St. Louis-Southern preferred also were conspicuously heavy. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 310,000 shares.

With many traders away for the holiday, trading was relatively quiet at the opening of today's stock market with the price tendency irregular. Initial changes with few exceptions, were of a fractional character. Shattuck-Arizona advanced a point and moderate improvement was shown by Marland Oil, Standard Oil of California, American Can, United States Steel, Iron Products and Lehigh Valley. United Fruit dropped 1¼ and Bethlehem "B" and Crucible receded fractionally.

Mexican Petroleum, ordinarily inactive, added 13 points to its 9-point gain of Thursday, selling at 288. Foreign exchanges opened irregular, demand sterling dropping ⅛ to $4.67¼, and French francs climbing 3½ points to 6.66½ cents. Moderate improvement also was registered by German marks, which advanced 1¾ to .0047½ cents.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Dun's today says:

The sudden recurrence of cold weather at different points this week temporarily checked spring trade and this is a normally quiet period in some wholesale branches. Notable activity, however, continues at many manufacturing plants, with practically full operations in various instances and March closing with high record outputs. It is significant of the pronounced industrial revival that the leading steel interest is now running at better than a 90 per cent rate against about 65 per cent a year ago and that the number of pig iron furnaces at work is increasing steadily.

Doubts regarding future producing costs, due to the wage phase tend to limit third quarter business or prevent it altogether and actual wage advances in the textile field have caused some questioning as to their probable ultimate in- [illegible] prices and consumption. nk, clearings, $6,620,358,066.

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 31.

WHEAT—Unseasonably cold weather led to higher prices for wheat today during the early dealings. Fears that the low temperatures would hinder growth and that other damage to the winter crop might result, induced considerable buying. July and September deliveries, representing the forthcoming new crop were relatively stronger in price than in May which stands for wheat already on hand. The opening, which ranged from ⅛ to ⅝c higher with May $1.19¾@1.19⅞ and July $1.16¾@1.16⅞, was followed by decided further gains.

Subsequently an opinion by a leading crop expert that a change to warmth and repeated showers is much needed by winter wheat had an additional bullish effect. The close was firm, 1¼@2⅛c net higher, with May $1.20⅜@1.20½ and July $1.17@1.17⅛.

CORN—Continued necessity for heavy feeding of live stock tended to lift the corn market. After opening a shade off to ¼c up, May 74⅛c to 74¼@⅜c, corn scored a moderate general advance.

Some export inquiries were near to a working basis. With rural offerings continuing light, the close was firm at ¾@⅞c net advance. May 74⅝@74¾c.

OATS—Oats were bullishly affected by reports that seeding operations were being delayed. The market opened ⅛ to ¼c higher, May 44⅞@45c, and later continued to ascend.

PROVISIONS—Despite higher quotations on hogs the provision market lacked support.

FREMONT, Neb., March 31.—Investigation shows that the wreck of ei Northwestern freight train No. 43 on Friday was caused by a dredge slipping from a flat car and catching on the ties. Conductor William Moller of Fremont, who suffered severe scalp wounds when the rear portion of the train came to a sudden halt, was brought here. His injuries are not as serious as was at first believed.

NOT FAVORABLE TO REFERENDUM ON MAKING WAR

Would Have Helped Kaiser.

"If such a provision as this had been in effect six years ago, the kaiser would have ruled Europe today," declared Mr. Keck. "It was the sending of our boys over which saved Europe from coming under the iron heel of German despotism. The people of the United States would not have voted for war, but it was necessary for us to get in."

Mr. Baldridge asked what would happen if the enemy should send a high-powered battle fleet and swarms of airplanes to swoop down on the American coast while a month or so was being consumed in getting a referendum or what would happen if some hostile nation should attempt to seize the outlying possessions of the United States.

"It's a crime to declare war until the people have spoken," asserted Mr. Axtell. "All wars are started by those in power."

"This is tampering with the fundamental functions of government," said Mr. Garber. "Nations are just like individuals. Until we find some way to remove the fangs from members of this chamber who do not hesitate to assassinate the characters of their associates, we cannot assume that all governments are trustworthy."

Jacoby declared that he had "the inside dope," and that the World War should have cost the United States only five or six billion dollars, instead of $24,000,000,000.

MORE STRINGENT DRY LAW FAVORED

have had the 'flu' at some time or other this winter," he stated, "and I think it would have been helpful in practically every case if some whiskey or brandy had been available."

"Is there anything in this bill to prevent the boys having snakebite remedy in their possession," asked Mr. Reece.

"Not unless they try to throw it away when someone gets after them," was the reply.

Mr. Axtell gave it as his opinion that chiropractors and osteopaths were ten times as successful as medical doctors in treating the "flu," and they use no alcoholic liquor, he said.

Demands Count of "Bootleggers."

"Let's take a vote on this and find out how many bootleggers there are in the house," suggested Mr. Gordon. This stirred Mr. Quinn to wrath, and he spoke thus:

"I'm absolutely against this prohibition law. The men who passed it were drunk when they did so."

"I can verify that statement," chimed in Mr. Keck. "I was here and saw some of them."

"Every liberty-loving citizen knows that prohibition laws can't be made too strict," said Mr. Davis (Cass). "I want to see liquor entirely banished from the United States. It may do a little good once in a while, but it has rone a million times more harm."

"Looking over this assembly," observed Mr. Lamb, "I would say that instead of liquor making people well it does just the opposite in some cases, and that every day in every way some are getting sicker and sicker."

"We're getting nearer all the time to the old blue laws of New England," asserted Mr. Broome, who moved to kill the bill. His motion failed, 21 to 45, and it was then advanced to third reading.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 31.

Stock prices moved in rather aimless and irregular fashion in today's market. Few of the leaders fluctuated sufficiently either way to furnish a definite indication of speculative operations. With most of the large operators away for the Easter holidays the price movements were largely in the hands of floor traders. Heaviness of Pacific Oil and several of the independent steel shares were counter balanced by advances in the food group and a few minor specialties. Willys-Overland preferred was pushed up 4½ points and Beechnut and Century Ribbon each advanced 2. Marland Oil also rose over 2 points to a new high for the year. Selling in the Virginia-Carolina Chemical issues forced the preferred down nearly 3 points. Adams Express and St. Louis-Southern preferred also were conspicuously heavy. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 310,000 shares.

With many traders away for the holiday, trading was relatively quiet at the opening of today's stock market with the price tendency irregular. Initial changes with few exceptions, were of a fractional character. Shattuck-Arizona advanced a point and moderate improvement was shown by Marland Oil, Standard Oil of California, American Can, United States Steel, Iron Products and Lehigh Valley. United Fruit dropped 1¼ and Bethlehem "B" and Crucible receded fractionally.

Mexican Petroleum, ordinarily inactive, added 13 points to its 9-point gain of Thursday, selling at 288. Foreign exchanges opened irregular, demand sterling dropping ⅛ to $4.67½, and French francs climbing 3½ points to 6.66½ cents. Moderate improvement also was registered by German marks, which advanced 1⅝ to .0047½ cents.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Dun's today says:

The sudden recurrence of cold weather at different points this week temporarily checked spring trade and this is a normally quiet period in some wholesale branches. Notable activity, however, continues at many manufacturing plants, with practically full operations in various instances and March closing with high record outputs. It is significant of the pronounced industrial revival that the leading steel interests is now running at better than a 90 per cent rate against about 65 per cent a year ago and that the number of pig iron furnaces at work is increasing steadily.

Doubts regarding future producing costs, due to the wage phase, tend to limit third quarter business or prevent it altogether and actual wage advances in the textile field have caused some questioning as to their probable ultimate in prices and consumption bank clearings, $6,620,958,000.

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 31.

WHEAT—Unseasonably cold weather led to higher prices for wheat today during the early dealings. Fears that the low temperatures would hinder growth and that other damage to the winter crop might result, induced considerable buying. July and September deliveries, representing the forthcoming new crop were relatively stronger in price than in May which stands for wheat already on hand. The opening, which ranged from ⅛ to ⅝c higher with May $1.19⅛@1.19¼ and July $1.15⅞@1.16⅛, was followed by decided further gains.

Subsequently an opinion by a leading crop expert that a change to warmth and repeated showers is much needed by winter wheat had an additional bullish effect. The close was firm, 1⅝@2⅛c net higher, with May $1.20¾@1.20⅞ and July $1.17@1.17⅛.

CORN—Continued necessity for heavy feeding of live stock tended to lift the corn market. After opening a shade off to ¼c up, May 74¼c to 74⅛@⅜c, corn scored a moderate general advance.

Some export inquiries were near to a working basis. With rural offerings continuing light, the close was firm at ¼@½c net advance, May 74⅝@74¾c.

OATS—Oats were bullishly affected by reports that seeding operations were being delayed. The market opened ⅛ to ¼c higher, May 44⅞@05c, and later continued to ascend.

PROVISIONS—Despite higher quotations on hogs the provision market lacked support.

Wreck Caused By Shifting Freight

(Special to The Star.)

FREMONT, Neb., March 31.—Investigation shows that the wreck of Northwestern freight train No. 43 on Friday was caused by a dredge slipping from a flat car and catching on the ties. Five freight cars were derailed. It was at first thought that the track had caved in at a culvert, but this proved incorrect. Conductor William Moller of Fremont, who suffered severe scalp wounds when the rear portion of the train came to a sudden halt, was brought here. His injuries are not as serious as was at first believed.

NOT FAVORABLE TO REFERENDUM ON MAKING WAR

Would Have Helped Kaiser.

"If such a provision as this had been in effect six years ago, the kaiser would have ruled Europe today," declared Mr. Keck. "It was the sending of our boys over which saved Europe from coming under the iron heel of German despotism. The people of the United States would not have voted for war, but it was necessary for us to get in."

Mr. Baldridge asked what would happen if the enemy should send a high-powered battle fleet and swarms of airplanes to swoop down on the American coast while a month or so was being consumed in getting a referendum or what would happen if some hostile nation should attempt to seize the outlying possessions of the United States.

"It's a crime to declare war until the people have spoken," asserted Mr. Axtell. "All wars are started by those in power."

"This is tampering with the fundamental functions of government," said Mr. Garber. "Nations are just like individuals. Until we find some way to remove the fangs from members of this chamber who do not hesitate to assassinate the characters of their associates, we cannot assume that all governments are trustworthy."

Jacoby declared that he had "the inside dope," and that the World War should have cost the United States only five or six billion dollars, instead of $24,000,000,000.

MORE STRINGENT DRY LAW FAVORED

have had the 'flu' at some time or other this winter," he stated, "and I think it would have been helpful in practically every case if some whiskey or brandy had been available."

"Is there anything in this bill to prevent the boys having snakebite remedy in their possession" asked Mr. Reece.

"Not unless they try to throw it away when someone gets after them," was the reply.

Mr. Axtell gave it as his opinion that chiropractors and osteopaths were ten times as successful as medical doctors in treating the "flu," and they use no alcoholic liquor, he said.

Demands Count of "Bootleggers."

"Let's take a vote on this and find out how many bootleggers there are in the house," suggested Mr. Gordon. This stirred Mr. Quinn to wrath, and he spoke thus:

"I'm absolutely against this prohibition law. The men who passed it were drunk when they did so."

"I can verify that statement," chimed in Mr. Keck. "I was here and saw some of them."

"Every liberty-loving citizen knows that prohibition laws can't be made too strict," said Mr. Davis (Cass). "I want to see liquor entirely banished from the United States. It may do a little good once in a while, but it has done a million times more harm."

"Looking over this assembly," observed Mr. Lamb, "I would say, that instead of liquor making people well it does just the opposite in some cases, and that every day in every way some are getting sicker and sicker."

"We're getting nearer all the time to the old blue laws of New England," asserted Mr. Broome, who moved to kill the bill. His motion failed, 21 to 45, and it was then advanced to third reading.

LIFE AND CHARACTER READING.

The governing sign of this birthdate is Pisces and Aries, the combination giving both splendid understanding and excellent intellect. This means unusual brain power and the ability to carry through projects, schemes and details to successful conclusions.

The remarkable kindliness and enthusiasm concerning people and events make them the most fascinating of companions and friends. Their loyalty can always be depended upon. They do not shine as logicians for in their mind there is something far greater than logic and that is intuition, and it seldom fails them.

The governing planets of this date are Neptune and Jupiter and the birthstone is a turquoise.

Work will be increasing by now and laborers, mechanics and steel workers will do well to keep their eyes on The Star Want Ads for the following month.

LIFE AND CHARACTER READING.

The governing sign of this birthdate is Pisces and Aries, the combination giving both splendid understanding and excellent intellect. This means unusual brain power and the ability to carry through projects, schemes and details to successful conclusions.

The remarkable kindliness and enthusiasm concerning people and events make them the most fascinating of companions and friends. Their loyalty can always be depended upon. They do not shine as logicians for in their mind there is something far greater than logic and that is intuition, and it seldom fails them.

The governing planets of this date are Neptune and Jupiter and the birthstone is a turquoise.

Flying End Strikes and Lacerates Face Of Gus Carleson.

(Special to The Star.)

NELIGH, Neb., March 31—Gus Carleson, who is an employe on the farm of Floyd Wilson, southwest of this place, met with a peculiar and painful accident Thursday. He was assisting in shelling corn, being engaged at the time in shoveling corn from a wagon into the sheller when the machine choked and the drive chain broke under the strain flying and striking Carleson in the face. It cut a severe gash and narrowly missed the eye.

(Special to The Star.)

TABLE ROCK, Neb., March 31.—Frank Howard died at his home in Pawnee City Friday after an illness of many months from cancer. He recently visited the Mayo Brothers at Rochester, Minn., but they gave him no encouragement as to permanent relief. He was a prominent horse buyer and had a wide acquaintance all over the state. He was between sixty and sixty-five and is survived by a wife, two sons and two daughters. He grew to manhood on his father's farm some five miles south of Table Rock, later moving to Pawnee City. Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

She was engaged in trimming up rose bushes in the yard at home and the ax slipped and cut off her second toe and nearly amputated the large one. A surgeon was immediately summoned, the toe was replaced and the wound dressed.

Youthful Burglar Is Caught In Act

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., March 31.—While D. S. Simms was in the back part of his drug store washing his hands, a youth entered the store through the rear window. The lights were turned off and the boy walked into the arms of the proprietor. He was arrested and is said to have made a statement that he had been in the store twice before but had only taken patent medicine.

Article On Soda Has Big Circulation

(Special to The Star.)

FALLS CITY, Neb., March 31.—About six months ago Dr. Edward R. Hays wrote an article in a medical journal on the merits of bicarbonate of soda. It came to the attention of one of the world's largest manufacturers, who asked the local physician's permission for printing the article in pamphlet form. Dr. Hays consented with the result that the pamphlet has found its way into 3,000,000 homes during the past five months through the medium of being inserted in the packages, and, according to the manufacturers, will have a total circulation of 11,000,000 by the end of the year.

Shattuck to Judge Poland Chinas at Coming State Fair

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., March 31—Thomas A. Shattuck, who has been judge for a number of years in the various swine shows of the nation, has been selected to judge Poland China hogs at the Nebraska state fair this year. Mr. Shattuck judged Poland Chinas at the National Swine show at Peoria, Ill., last year and at the state fair in Oklahoma.

The Swine World, the principal publication devoted to the hog industry, gives the following comment on Mr. Shattuck's work at Peoria:

"To close the comment on the various classes of this great show without special mention of the masterful work of Judge Shattuck would indeed be a serious miscarriage of justice and fairness. His work was clear cut and it was consistent. He was rapid but not dangerously speedy. He was thorough. We could not agree with him all the time but his every decision had the respect of all of us. Judge Shattuck's role in the 1922 national show was a greater factor in the Poland China predominance than that of any other man."

Lawritson of Lincoln who are in northern Wisconsin purchasing calves for the Lions Calf club of Adams county tell of zero temperature, deep snow and travel by sleigh in their search for the proper animals. Twenty-two have been purchased so far. They expect to reach Lincoln by April 1.

ORCHARD SPRAYING.

GENEVA.—Now is the time to plan orchard spraying work, says Lee W. Thompson, county agent of Fillmore county. Spraying is done to control injurious insects and fungus pests and thereby increase the yield and improve the quality of fruit. Apple scab and coddling both frequently destroy from 60 to 85 per cent of the crop in unsprayed orchards according to a circular issued by the agricultural college. Other pests such as bloch, curculio, lesser apple worm and canker worms are occasionally serious. To be effective the spray materials must be applied before the pests begin to work. Insects that eat the leaves and fruit, such as coddling moths, curculio, canker worms, etc., are controlled by lead arsenate. Apple scab and bloch are controlled by a fungicide, such as lime sulphur.

The fruit spray for apples should consist of 1 1-2 gallons of lime sulphur solution and 1 pound of lead arsenate powder to fifty gallons of water. The spraying should be done when the flower buds begin to show pink, and before the cluster buds open.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it helped me so much that I soon felt fine."—Mrs. CHARLES BEELER, 1910 Elk St., Port Huron, Mich.

Selling Lincoln to Lincoln

It had been cloudy all day and although it was not late the library had grown dusk save for the light thrown out from the fireplace which cast a soft glow over everything and made the remote corners mysterious. Only Mr. Seldon and Jane were at home. Mrs. Seldon and the youngsters had not yet returned from the Sunday vesper concert at the high school.

It had grown too dark to read longer without turning on the light, and Mr. Seldon sat buried in thought—a cigar that had long ago gone out resting between his fingers, the dying embers in the fireplace casting mellowness over his face that made him appear weathered and slightly older than usual but at the same time took away every harsh line that business cares had brought there.

Jane slid herself up on the arm of his chair. 'A penny for your thoughts," she said, rubbing her soft cheek against his rougher one.

"I was trying to think of something to do to help Hugh Allendale," he said. "Gad, that boy has a lot of pluck! He came here almost a year ago with only a little money and rented a couple of little rooms there on N street to start his factory. It seems that he had been very fond of this particular kind of cookie as a boy when his mother used to make cookies for him. He is a dreamer, and he thought of all the pleasure he could give little kids all over the country if he would make cookies just like those his mother used to make and put them on the market.

"His cookies are delicious, they are wholesome. There is not a better cookie on the market. Lincoln people use an enormous quantity of store cookies. Any grocer will tell you so. Anyone would think that Lincoln alone would keep Hugh busy in his factory. But do you think Lincoln women would buy his cookies? No! Some of the grocers started handling them, but they wouldn't sell. Their customers wouldn't even give them a trial. They thought that because they were a Lincoln product they were inferior. Hugh advertised. He did everything in human power to get Lincoln people to buy his cookies, but he had practically no sales here. Not to be discouraged, he went in for national advertising, and now he is shipping out all the time. He has enlarged his plant and is doing a good business, but his expenses are very heavy and I am afraid he is not going to make it go. I wish you could see his plant, Jane. It is strictly up-to-date since he remodeled it."

"I would surely like it, dad. You will have to take me through some time."

Then a sudden idea occurred to her. "I'll tell you what I will do. I will take my cooking class through the factory. I want my girls to make a scientific study of the processes in the manufacture of some of our foods and I had been planning to take them on some excursions. This will be just the thing! I will be giving my class the very best instruction. I will get to see the factory myself, and we will be helping the Allendale cookie industry get a start among Lincoln people. That is killing three birds with one stone, isn't it?"

"It may serve to kill four birds with one stone," dad thought, but he didn't say so. Instead, he called Jane by the pet name that he used to call her when she was a little tot playing in the sand with Hugh Allendale. He said, "Yes, Todens, that's a good idea. Go to it."

Lincoln's Home Building Increases Rapidly With Coming of Prosperity

A big home-building boom has come with the loosening up of financial conditions and the general prosperity of the season, and everybody connected in any way with the building industry sees a busy time ahead. Many permits are being let for residences along Sheridan boulevard and other parts of southeast Lincoln. The building boom extends into the suburbs, especially College View which is steadily growing toward Lincoln while Lincoln grows toward it.

Geo. W. Ellsworth, who is an abstracter, is interested in the sale of lots, the erection of houses and the making of loans, has come in touch with great activity along these lines.

It seems that houses are going up almost by wholesale. Mr. Ellsworth said he had noticed three large residences started on the same block on Sheridan boulevard within the past week or two. Clyde Reddig of the Reddig and Barrett firm, said that standing near the greenhouse on Sheridan boulevard he could see ten or twelve cellars where houses are to go up.

Mr. Reddig said that orders for furnaces are coming in in unprecedented numbers; at least the business is better than it has been for ten or twelve years. A great many small homes are being built. Nearly all the orders for furnaces thus far have been for six-room houses.

Mr. Reddig expressed the hope that dealers will not advance the prices of building materials to such an extent that the boom will suddenly come to a halt. He said that sheet metal has not advanced yet.

(Special to The Star.)

NELIGH, Neb., March 31—Gus Carleson, who is an employe on the farm of Floyd Wilson, southwest of this place, met with a peculiar and painful accident Thursday. He was assisting in shelling corn, being engaged at the time in shoveling corn from a wagon into the sheller when the machine choked and the drive chain broke under the strain flying and striking Carleson in the face. It cut a severe gash and narrowly missed the eye.

He recently visited the Mayo Brothers at Rochester, Minn., but they gave him no encouragement as to permanent relief. He was a prominent horse buyer and had a wide acquaintance all over the state. He was between sixty and sixty-five and is survived by a wife, two sons and two daughters. He grew to manhod on his father's farm some five miles south of Table Rock, later moving to Pawnee City. Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

A surgeon was immediately summoned, the toe was replaced and the wound dressed.

(Special to The Star.)

Article On Soda Has Big Circulation

(Special to The Star.)

FALLS CITY, Neb., March 31.—About six months ago Dr. Edward R. Hays wrote an article in a medical journal on the merits of bicarbonate of soda. It came to the attention of one of the world's largest manufacturers, who asked the local physician's permission for printing the article in pamphlet form. Dr. Hays consented with the result that the pamphlet has found its way into 3,000,000 homes during the past five months through the medium of being inserted in the packages, and, according to the manufacturers, will have a total circulation of 11,000,000 by the end of the year.

Shattuck to Judge Poland Chinas at Coming State Fair

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., March 31—Thomas A. Shattuck, who has been judge for a number of years in the various swine shows of the nation, has been selected to judge Poland China hogs at the Nebraska state fair this year. Mr. Shattuck judged Poland Chinas at the National Swine show at Peoria, Ill., last year and at the state fair in Oklahoma.

The Swine World, the principal publication devoted to the hog industry, gives the following comment on Mr. Shattuck's work at Peoria:

"To close the comment on the various classes of this great show without special mention of the masterful work of Judge Shattuck would indeed be a serious miscarriage of justice and fairness. His work was clear cut and it was consistent. He was rapid but not dangerously speedy. He was thorough. We could not agree with him all the time but his every decision had the respect of all of us. Judge Shattuck's role in the 1922 national show was a greater factor in the Poland China predominance than that of any other man."

ORCHARD SPRAYING.

GENEVA.—Now is the time to plan orchard spraying work, says Lee W. Thompson, county agent of Fillmore county. Spraying is done to control injurious insects and fungus pests and thereby increase the yield and improve the quality of fruit. Apple scab and coddling both frequently destroy from 60 to 85 per cent of the crop in unsprayed orchards according to a circular issued by the agricultural college. Other pests such as bloch, curculic, lesser apple worm and canker worms are occasionally serious. To be effective the spray materials must be applied before the pests begin to work. Insects that eat the leaves and fruit, such as coddling moths, curculic, canker worms, etc., are controlled by lead arsenate. Apple scab and bloch are controlled by a fungicide, such as lime sulphur.

The fruit spray for apples should consist of 1 1-2 gallons of lime sulphur solution and 1 pound of lead arsenate powder to fifty gallons of water. The spraying should be done when the flower buds begin to show pink, and before the cluster buds open.

Selling Lincoln to Lincoln

It had been cloudy all day and although it was not late the library had grown dusk save for the light thrown out from the fireplace which cast a soft glow over everything and made the remote corners mysterious. Only Mr. Seldon and Jane were at home. Mrs. Seldon and the youngsters had not yet returned from the Sunday vesper concert at the high school.

It had grown too dark to read longer without turning on the light, and Mr. Seldon sat buried in thought—a cigar that had long ago gone out resting between his fingers, the dying embers in the fireplace casting mellowness over his face that made him appear weathered and slightly older than usual but at the same time took away every harsh line that business cares had brought there.

Jane slid herself up on the arm of his chair. 'A penny for your thoughts," she said, rubbing her soft cheek against his rougher one.

"I was trying to think of something to do to help Hugh Allendale," he said. "Gad, that boy has a lot of pluck! He came here almost a year ago with only a little money and rented a couple of little rooms there on N street to start his factory. It seems that he had been very fond of this particular kind of cookie as a boy when his mother used to make cookies for him. He is a dreamer, and he thought of all the pleasure he could gve little kids all over the country if he would make cookies just like those his mother used to make and put them on the market.

"His cookies are delicious, they are wholesome. There is not a better cookie on the market. Lincoln people use an enormous quantity of store cookies. Any grocer will tell you so. Anyone would think that Lincoln alone would keep Hugh busy in his factory. But do you think Lincoln women would buy his cookies? No! Some of the grocers started handling them, but they wouldn't sell. Their customers wouldn't even give them a trial. They thought that because they were a Lincoln product they were inferior. Hugh advertised. He did everything in human power to get Lincoln people to buy his cookies, but he had practically no sales here. Not to be discouraged, he went in for national advertising, and now he is shipping out all the time. He has enlarged his plant and is doing a good business, but his expenses are very heavy and I am afraid he is not going to make it go. I wish you could see his plant, Jane. It is strictly up-to-date since he remodeled it."

"I would surely like it, dad. You will have to take me through some time."

Then a sudden idea occurred to her. "I'll tell you what I will do. I will take my cooking class through the factory. I want my girls to make a scientific study of the processes in the manufacture of some of our foods and I had been planning to take them on some excursions. This will be just the thing! I will be giving my class the very best instruction, I will get to see the factory myself, and we wll be helping the Allendale cookie industry get a start among Lincoln people. That is killing three birds with one stone, isn't it?"

"It may serve to kill four birds with one stone," dad thought, but he didn't say so. Instead, he called Jane by the pet name that he used to call her when she was a little tot playing in the sand with Hugh Allendale. He said, "Yes, Todens, that's a good idea. Go to it."

A big home-building boom has come with the loosening up of financial conditions and the general prosperity of the season, and everybody connected in any way with the building industry sees a busy time ahead. Many permits are being let for residences along Sheridan boulevard and other parts of southeast Lincoln. The building boom extends into the suburbs, especially College View which is steadily growing toward Lincoln while Lincoln grows toward it.

Geo. W. Ellsworth, who is an abstracter, is interested in the sale of lots, the erection of houses and the making of loans, has come in touch with great activity along these lines.

It seems that houses are going up almost by wholesale. Mr. Ellsworth said he had noticed three large residences started on the same block on Sheridan boulevard within the past week or two. Clyde Reddig of the Reddig and Barrett firm, said that standing near the greenhouse on Sheridan boulevard he could see ten or twelve cellars where houses are to go up.

Mr. Reddig said that orders for furnaces are coming in in unprecedented numbers; at least the business is better than it has been for ten or twelve years. A great many small homes are being built. Nearly all the orders for furnaces thus far have been for six-room houses.

Mr. Reddig expressed the hope that dealers will not advance the prices of building materials to such an extent that the boom will suddenly come to a halt. He said that sheet metal has not advanced yet.
